STATE'S PROBLEMS UP TO LEGISLATURE

Relief And Social Security Problems To Be Faced By State Body

By J. WILLIAM THEIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 15.—The welfare of Pennsylvania's thousands of social dependents was consigned to her legislators today when Gov. George H. Earle's announcement that the general assembly will be convened in special session early next year.

Ending speculation over how the administration would solve its pressing relief and social security problems, the governor declared the legislature would be called to meet some time during the first three months of 1936. It will be the 18th special session in the state's history.

Political leaders saw in the governor's announcement an imminent renewal of bitter legislative warfare over social and labor welfare measures which failed in the Republican senate in the regular session last spring. For although the executive said the session was "imperative" to make Pennsylvania eligible for contributions under the federal social security act, and to provide unemployment relief, he added that "other pressing problems" would be considered.

Relief, the administration's chief worry in the face of withdrawal of federal aid on December 1, was temporarily relegated to a position

Only four degrees variation was shown in the temperature between 9 o'clock Thursday morning and 9 o'clock this morning. It was one of those rare occasions when the temperature was almost constant.

Motorists said that Thursday was one of the worst driving days we have had this fall. Coming from Altoona, Pa., one man spent three hours on the road. He said that above 1200 feet, where the "ceiling" seemed to be, the moisture laden air was so thick that he couldn't see 25 feet ahead.

One of the unusual things for November, due presumably to the mild weather, is that Four O'clocks are again growing from the seed on the lawn at the home of Mrs. H. M. Murphy at Carbon. These flowers usually come in the spring after early planting.

Dear Pa Newc:—

The big goshawk that was at Gaston park is dead. On Saturday afternoon a visitor at the zoo had with him a big dog. The dog jumped at the hawk when he was feeding and frightened him and he flew against his shelter house and broke his neck. The hawk attracted a lot of attention the past summer, as he was quite rare in these parts. So I hope that the visitors to Gaston park will please heed the notices in the park and not bring their dogs with them. This accident to the hawk was witnessed by Trevor M. Williams of 753 Arlington avenue and William E. Lowrey of 1231½ South Mill street.

Says W. P. A. Has 10,182 Men Now On Projects In Four-County Area

In a statement made today, J. Vale Downie, director of the Works Progress Administration outlined the present status of the organization and the status of the unemployed situation in Lawrence Beaver, Butler and Mercer counties.

The statement follows:

On November 13 there were 10,182 men at work on W. P. A. projects in district 14, which comprises Beaver, Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties. This number does not include men in C. C. C. camps or administrative personnel. It represents approximately three-fourths of the new quota of workers to be employed in district 14, which was established November 1 at 13,781. This quota is the estimated number of relief families in the district containing at least one employable person. The figure was fixed in July at 12,424, which was the goal toward which the W. P. A. organization has been working up until November 1, when new quotas were fixed for the district offices by the state administration.

A total of 261 jobs are in operation in the four-county district and, at the present moment, federal funds to the amount of $569,000 are being distributed to labor in the area. Appropriations for materials

Sanctions Will Start Monday

British Officials See No Reason To Delay League Penalty Action

ITALIAN PROTEST TO BE ANSWERED

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Sevice Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 15—British officials were determined today to put League of Nations sanctions against Italy into effect Monday, as scheduled, and agreed nothing has happened to impede the forthcoming penalties against Premier Mussolini.

Whitehall officials commented caustically on reports of Italian irritation regarding the British attitude toward the Italy's note warning application of sanctions would being reprisals.

Firm Attitude

The British have maintained a firm attitude in the face of the Italian note and have sought to line up all League members in a solid front for a unanimously unbending reply to Italy. The British believe the Italian note was an attepmt to break the solidarity of the League.

Whitehall spokesman pointed out all League members, including France, agree with the British view and demanded to know why Italy singled out Britain for special criticism.

Consultations among League members regarding a reply to Italy are continuing.

Regarding the Italian threat to abrogate trade treaties if sanctions are applied, the view was expressed here that action under the League covenant over-rides commercial and trade agreements and that in any case they would become inoperative between sanctionist nations and Italy as soon as sanctions are applied.

Wild Tribesmen May Be Released Against Italians

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, Nov. 15.—More than 100,000 wild Ethiopian tribesmen, held in leash for months in violation of their warring traditions, are about to be released to open an offensive against the Italians in the north, dispatches from Addis Ababa today said.

While clashes and several Italian airplane bombardments were reported on two fronts, with at least 55 Ethiopians killed, Reuters said Emperor Haile Selassie had dispatched an order to Ras Hassa, giving him a "free hand" for operations against the Italians.

City To Request Paving Projects

W. P. A. Paving Projects To Be Presented For Approval

STREETS NAMED BY ENGINEER

Council convened in the city building today and approved a recommendation by City Engineer Glenn Throop that the city request the WPA to put through a parving program here which would cost $321,235.42, of which the government would pay $275,140.000, and the city $37,095.42.

The thoroughfares which the city wants paved with a bituminous surface are as follows: Garfield avenue, Raymond street, Fairfield avenue, Englewood avenue, Chartes street, Sumner avenue and Leasure avenue.

The total frontage is 11,766 feet which would require 42,120 square yards of bituminous surface and 23,039 lineal feet of concrete curb.

The government will be asked to pay $275,140.00 and the city, as sponsor, $37,095.42.

The city's cost would be divided as follows:

Amounts assessable to property $33,704.42, cost of equipment and tools (which city now has) $800.00, and the cost of materials, $2,900.00.

Night School Being Planned

Educational Projects For W. P. A. Are Outlined For New Castle

Educational projects for District 14 of the Works Progress administration have been sent to Harrisburg for approval, according to Elmer Patterson, director for the district. Mr. Patterson believes that the approval of Harrisburg will not be long in forthcoming, the approval of Washington being unnecessary as the money has already been allotted to the state.

In the very near future evening classes for adults under the auspices of the Education Division of the WPA will be opened in the City of New Castle and in various centers of Lawrence county.

When final instructions are received from Harrisburg, notice will be given in the New Castle News of meetings for the organization of these classes.

It is probable that there will be three centers in New Castle: In the Lincoln and Garfield and the Mahoning schools, Americanization classes; and in the North street school, classes in academic subjects, typewriting and shorthand, parent education, music, etc. for adults. These classes will continue until about June 1.

In past years classes have been conducted in the North street school in many subjects, including spelling, penmanship, arithmetic, higher mathematics, government, economics, history, bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting, literature, psychology, public speaking, Latin, French, Spanish, German and dramatics. It is possible this year to offer work of college grade.

Revocation Of German Steel Contracts Aim

Investigation Is Ordered After Ickes Reverses His Position

FOREIGN MATERIALS TO COME UNDER BAN

None Can Be Used Without Permission Of Public Works Administrator

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Investigation of two contracts for German steel on two PWA projects was before the Federal Trade Commission today with their revocation as the ultimate goal in the drive of organized labor and producers against use of foreign materials.

The investigation was requested by PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes following his reversal of his previous position on regulations following purchase of materials, and his admission of a "misunderstanding" in fixing the rate of differentials between American and foreign products.

"Can Revoke Contracts."

Ickes, however, insisted that bids of four American steel companies on one project, at Morehead City, N. C., "constitutes at least some evidence of collusion" because they were identical.

If the German bidder on $19,000 worth of the steel for the Queens approach to the tri-borough bridge in New York City was able to make

The Filipinos were praised in an address by Secretary of War George H. Dern for the progress made during the 36 years of American occupation.

Welcome New Pastor At East Side Church

Rev. and Mrs. Chester T. R. Yeates were formally welcomed to the Third United Presbyterian church of the East Side, Thursday evening, when the congregation held a reception in the church parlors. About 400 were in attendance with many visitors from other churches among those present.

The program of the evening had been arranged by a committee headed by J. R. A. Pattison as chairman. Opening the program Mr. Pattison conducted the devotional period and introduced the master of ceremonies, W. W. McMillin. Mr. McMillin then took charge of the program and presented the speakers and musicians.

Several numbers by a male quartet and a vocal solo by Mrs. Agnes O'Neil were enjoyed, followed by a clarinet solo by Gilbert Colnot, Jr. Then came greetings from the different departments of the church. A. J. Minnick brought the greetings from the session; Russell McNickle for the board of deacons; William Schoenfeld for the trustees; Mabel Kocher for the Y. P. C. U.; Mrs. Floyd Reed for the Women's Missionary Society; Mrs. Margaret Moore, for the Mary Copeland Society; Miss Lois Aiken for the Loyal Daughters of the King; J. W. Rupert for the Bible School. A number of visiting ministers were present and brought greetings from their churches. They included Rev. C. K. McGeorge, Rev. S. E. Irvine, Dr. Grant Fisher, and Mrs. D. L. Ferguson who took the place of her husband, Rev. D. L. Ferguson. All of them wished the new pastor of the Third church success and happiness in his pastorate.

Both Rev. Yeates and his wife responded. They expressed their pleasure at being called to the Third church, asked for the cooperation of every member and promised their best efforts towards promoting the cause of the church.

A lunch and social hour followed in the church dining rooms.

New Trade Pact Will Be Signed

Premier Of Canada To Sign New Agreement During Day

HULL WILL SIGN FOR UNITED STATES

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A new era in the economic relations between the United States and Canada is expected to be inaugurated today with the signing of a reciprocal trade agreement designed to increase the flow of commerce between the two countries.

Premier W L. Mackenzie King, head of Canada's new Liberal government, is due here today to sign the treaty on behalf of the dominion. Secretary of State Cordell Hull will sign on behalf of this country.

It will be the first time a foreign prime minister has ever come to Washington to sign a trade act.

Mutual Concessions

Under the terms of the new agreement, Canada will extend to this government the same mutual concessions which it grants all other countries except the British Empire nations, which get special preferential treatment under the Ottawa trade agreements.

The United States will agree to maintain Canadian newsprint, pulpwood and asbestos on the free list for the duration of the agreement.

Both countries also grant tariff reductions on a number of commodities, but the nature of the concessions granted was being kept a closely guarded secret pending simultaneous publication of the agreement in Ottawa and Washington. This is expected on Monday.

Rails, farm implements, coppers, liquors, oils, and merchandising shares were the pacemakers. Steels, motors and utilities lagged.

U. S. Bureau Of Mines Research Scientist Discusses Coal Mining

PENNSYLVANIA COAL WORLD'S BEST

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1935, By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Pennsylvania's deep, cavernous labyrinths of coal beds, life's blood of the nation's industry, will be exploited in the future by new, revolutionary methods which will conserve the now over-worked beds for centuries to come.

That was revealed publicly for the first time through the International News Service by Dr. Reinhardt Theissen, research chemist of the United States Bureau of Mines here, who said that after years of research he had definitely discovered a means by which the coal beds of this state can be worked far more efficiently than ever before.

The method to be employed, according to the aged chemist, is the scientific study of coal layers before the mining process begins to determine the types of coal present so that the layers can be obtained separately according to their most efficient purpose and use.

More specifically, Dr. Theissen explained, coal beds at present are, for the most part, being mined with complete disregard to the organized structure of their layers. These layers, he said, have many divergent economic uses, instead of just one—mere burning for heat.

Many Tyes Of Layers.

Dr. Theissen explained:

"A single coal bed contains many types of layers, each one particularly adapted to a specific use. These layers are unusually visible to the naked eye and a little painstaking observation will reveal them.

"The types are divided into five general divisions: Bright, discerned by its translucency, and excellent for coking; splint, usually a dull black, and good for open boilers; semi-splint, similar to the splint type but more adapted to intensive heating requirements; cannel, devoid of strata, good for dining cars where hot flames are desired, and bog coal, only useful for distillation purposes.

"Now, instead of the operator mining the entire bed for one purpose, he must segregate the layers and use them for their most efficient purpose. This done, Pennsylvania's coal will be utilized to its maximum efficiency."

For example, Dr. Theissen pointed out, there is a huge field of bog coal between the upper and lower Freeport near Kiskimentas which has excellent distilling potentialities, and which has not been exploited because coal is generally thought of as a heat producing material.

"Pennsylvania coal," he declared, "is the best coal in the world."

"The vast anthracite fields in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre district," he added, "and the priceless bituminous regions in Greene, Fayette and adjacent counties supply this nation's industry with the basic element for primary stages of all production, and new, scientific methods of mining will conserve them."

GOVERNOR EARLE TO CALL ANOTHER SPECIAL SESSION

of secondary importance as the governor stressed the "absolute necessity" for providing new social security legislation that the state may get its share of federal funds under that program.

Business conditions and the success of the works progress administration in slashing relief rolls, the governor said, will determine largely what consideration must be given the growing relief crisis.

With data on local needs and anticipated progress he hopes to obtain next week from the relief board and the WPA, the governor said he would be in a better position to outline relief "musts" in his formal call. There appeared to be no doubt that, in line with his demand of this week, local communities would be told to "put up or go without" in the relief emergency.

Governor Earle particularly cited Philadelphia and Pittsburgh as local communities whose citizens now face a "terrific burden" in assuming their cost of relief because of the refusal of local authorities to cooperate with WPA.

Study Social Security

Assigned to study the state's existing social security legislation in the light of its conformance to the federal program, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti advised the governor that new laws were needed primarily for unemployment insurance, old age pensions and certain welfare department authority covering care of crippled children. The only question hanging fire was whether unemployment insurance legislation would have to be adopted before or after Jan. 1.

It was the latter opinion, given to the governor a few moments before his announcement of the pending session, which climaxed developments of the last few months.

REVOCATION OF GERMAN STEEL CONTRACTS AIM

such a low bid because of his government's subsidy and foreign exchange regulations, there would be ground for revocation, Ickes said.

"Contracts always can be revoked," he added.

He insisted, however, that the bridge contract was entirely up to the New York tri-borough bridge authority. Full investigation will be made, however, "by proper governmental authorities," he wrote in a letter to President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, in announcing the PWA change in policy.

That change in policy does not absolutely bar use of foreign materials. It provides "that no foreign materials may be purchased for federal or non-federal projects unless approval is first obtained from the administrator of public works, instead of allowing purchases to be made directly by the contractors or sub-contractors."

Contract Held Up.

While both of the contracts have been let, Assistant Administrator Horatio B. Hackett said he "understood" the tri-borough contract had been held up by the New York authorities. According to PWA officials, fabrication of the steel ordered has not yet been begun in the German steel mills.

Ickes frankly admitted that the PWA order fixing a differential of only 15 per cent in favor of American producers, as compared with 25 per cent allowed by the procurement division of the treasury, was due to a "misunderstanding" on the part of PWA, and he assumed entire responsibility.

"I acted on information provided by my staff," he said. "I am studying the situation."

Soundly Beaten

The elder MacDonald, whose future political career was thrown in doubt, was soundly beaten in a "revenge fight" by a laborite who made capital of what the laborites termed MacDonald's "desertion" from their ranks four years ago when he formed a national government.

MacDonald received only 17,882 votes from his constituency at Seaham ,while his opponent, E. Shinwell, polled 38,380.

Malcolm MacDonald also was beaten by a laborite, losing by 1,139 votes. He stood against F. J. Bellenger in the Bassetlaw district of Nottingham.

SAYS W. P. A. HAS 10,182 MEN NOW ON PROJECTS IN FOUR-COUNTY AREA

will bring this figure to $592,500 per month, which does not include any money that may be contributed by sponsors of W. P. A. projects.

Three-Fourths Complete

The administration of district 14 has acheived three-quarters of its program for providing work relief to replace direct relief in the district. Additional men are being requisitioned daily and it is anticipated that the entire quota will be picked up by November 22. There are two factors which may prevent the realization of this completion date. One is the lack of transportation for large groups of unemployed men who must be moved from towns and cities of the area to outlying districts. Trucks have been requisitioned for the purpose of conveying workers to such jobs, and it is expected that they will be available by the 20th or 22nd of the month. If we are not disappointed, I think it quite likely that we will pass our quota on the 22nd. Bids are being taken among truck owners of the district by the procurement division of the W. P. A. at the present moment.

The other factor that may delay, or perhaps prevent, the realization of the mark set up by Harrisburg is the failure of the labor supply. Such failure would, of course, be very gratifying to officials of the W. P. A., since it would indicate the achievement of our goal.

It seems evident that this point has been reached in Butler county, where we have a quota of 2,281 workers and have at this moment 1,807 men at work on 49 projects. The figures received from the employment office at Butler today, November 14, indicate that the office has received 3,500 requisitions for workers from W. P. A. It has filled 2,000 requisitions, of which number 1,807 are at work today. During the period of W. P. A. operation dating from July, 200 workers have been assigned to private industry. The employment office has left in its files at this time 200 cards, all of which represent workers who have been assigned at least twice and, in some cases, as many as four times, to jobs, but who have, for one reason or another, failed to report. It is understood that the relief office has turned over to the employment office every employable case. At this moment we have 15 projects ready to start in Butler and vicinity, which will employ at least 800 men. Since no men are available, there is no use in issuing more requisitions to the Butler employment office, and we shall therefore reserve these projects to be called for operation at a later time, or whenever they are needed.

In Beaver county our quota has been advanced from 4,097 to 4,590. In this county we have 2,893 men at work on 79 jobs and are distributing aproximately $170,000 per month to labor. Some groups of unemployed men remain in the valley towns. These will be assigned to jobs immediately when transportation is available to take them to the work.

Quotas Advanced

In Lawrence county the quota has been advanced from 3,437 to 3,790. In this county we have 3,098 at work on 75 jobs and are distributing $180,000 per month to labor.

In Mercer county the quota has been advanced from 2,826 to 3,120, and in this county we now have 2,384 men employed on 58 jobs. We are distributing $124,000 per month to labor in Mercer county. It is apparent that our program nears its goal in Mercer county, where there are still 736 workers to be assigned to jobs. Here, also, the problem is largely one of transportation. When trucks are available to move the remaining groups from Sharon and Farrell to outlying W. P. A. jobs, the remnant will be quickly absorbed.

As regards the future of the program, it is of interest to note that on November 1 we had written projects sufficient to supply 10,022 man years of employment, amounting to 72.7 per cent of our program. The development of new proposals is going forward at a satisfactory rate. The work of project creation and project inscription is continuing and will go on probably for several weeks. It should be realized, however, by potential sponsors and by the officials of towns and counties, that the amount of benefit they are to get out of this lavish expenditure of federal funds depends very largely on the alertness and intelligence with which they set about the sponsoring of the better class of projects. There are still some very desirable proposals for the repaving of city streets in various towns and cities of the district which have been delayed because of a lack of understanding by sponsors of the great benefits available under the program and, in some cases, because the sponsors were unable to supply the comparatively small amount of money needed for materials and equipment, which cannot be furnished by W. P. A. There are two or three types of street paving involving the use of native stone with a amiesite or asphaltic concrete top dressing which, because of the large amount of hand labor which can be used to advantage in spreading and breaking the stone, offer ideal projects and insure a civic improvement of a permanent and valuable character.

Under flaming war-time headlines, the newspaper Hochi said there are now 300,000 troops in the vicinity of Nanking, and other forces being stationed there and at Shanghai will swell the total by 200,000.

More trouble is foreseen as a result of the completion of the Chinese military airport at Li-Ying, said Hochi.

Stress was laid in the newspapers' excited accounts on the reportedly militant speech of Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek, former Chinese president and now head of the military forces, before the conference of the Kuomintang, the party that controls the Chinese government, at Shanghai.

The youths had decided to row Shipley to the home of his grandmother across the river. They were caught in the swift current in midstream.

Liquor Store At Vandergrift Opens

Despite Pressure Of Churches And W. C. T. U. Store Opens Today

(International News Service)

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Nov. 15.—"John Barleycorn" legally set foot in Vandergrift, the town founded on "dry" principles, for the first time today when the new state liquor store opened for business.

His reception, however, was not altogether cordial.

While customers filed through the establishment, statements boding ill for store's existence began to pop in clerical and temperance strongholds. The Rev. J. T. Lackey, spokesman for the ministerial association and Mrs. Willard Beck, of the W. C. T. U., charged the liquor control board used "underhanded" methods to advertise opening of the store.

Original deeds to the town provide no liquor shall be sold under penalty of revocation of the titles but the liquor board contends the provision is beyond the 30-year limit.

BRITAIN VOTES

MORE than 20,000,000 British voters went to the polls Thursday and, besides intrenching the Conservatives in power for a presumptive five years, recorded the nation as favorable to a huge program of national defense. From the standpoint of the outside world this was one of the most important British elections of many years.

The date of the election was set for four days in advance of the actual imposition of sanctions against Italy. Premier Stanley Baldwin, who had no opposition in his district counted heavily upon the overwhelming sentiment in favor of league sactions as expressed in the now historic Jubilee Year referendum. The Liberals and Laborites had no illusions about the outcome. They knew in advance they were beaten.

THE STREAMLINED TURKEY

With streamlined automobiles, railway trains and women's gowns, not to mention other things in common use, why should not the turkey also follow the fashion? An ever-benevolent government proposes to give him the chance. The Department of Agriculture is to become the Burbank of the animal kingdom by developing a bird that looks like a duck and can fit nicely into the small ovens of apartment house kitchens. The old twenty-odd pounder that was the crown of the family Thanksgiving feast is out of date. Its successor must have a plump breast, a broad back and small legs.

How such a turkey will be really streamlined it is not easy to guess. A more important question is whether the flavor will be the same. And what will become of the drumsticks beloved of children or the dark meat which many gourmets prefer? Or will the ingenious scientists provide that the breast shall not be wholly white meat? When you start monkeying with a turkey, who can tell what may happen? Let us not burst in ignorance.

We have come a long way from the old-fashioned oven with one side open to the fire, in which the bird was nicely spitted, and turned and basted to a golden brown.

PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE

The old adage says that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. That is especially applicable to fire. Insurance cannot replace all the values destroyed by fire. It is rare that a property owner on receiving his fire insurance check doesn't wish that he had exerted the ounce of prevention that would have made the cure unnecessary.

A fire may destroy rare books, paintings, or furniture that money cannot replace. A fire will burn little mementos, souvenirs and knick-knacks that are intrinsically next to worthless, but are of immense sentimental value to the owner. In cases of that kind, insurance money, as it is, cannot fill the void caused by the fires.

Even where insurance can restore destroyed direct values, there is almost always a great indirect loss. Take, for instance, a fire that burns a factory. Insurance will build a new building. It will install new machinery, wiring, plumbing and everything else. But it cannot make up for the jobs lost—for the destroyed purchasing power—for the weeks or months of non-productiveness that were necessary during the rebuilding process. The cure, in such a case, is not enough.

In the case of fire, "an ounce of prevention", figuratively speaking, is about all that is needed. Most properties can be safeguarded with but little expenditure of either time or money. Is that small expenditure worth while?

ANOTHER NEW DEAL BUBBLE BURSTS

Did ever the popular rantings of pseudo-economists receive sterner, more crushing rebuke than comes to them today in the news sent from China? Two years ago, monetary quacks filled the American air with great promise of blessings sure to be had from an increase in the world price of silver. They wept aloud over the cruel wrongs done to China and other silver-using nations by the wanton refusal of the United States government to help raise the price of their white metal. How could we expect the Orient to prosper and buy American goods, they asked, unless we helped them to gain from their silver stocks a proper exchange value?

On Dec. 21, 1933, President Roosevelt put the stamp of his administration's approval on this glowing theory. Ordaining a domestic price of 64 cents for new-mined American silver, at a time when the world price was only 42 cents, he inaugurated the silver purchase policy which congress, spurred on by Senator Thomas, had ratified at the previous session. The president acted, he said in a formal proclamation, because "from investigations made by me, I find it necessary, in aid of the stabilization of domestic prices . . . and to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, that the price of silver be enhanced and stabilized."

Today, we know the results of this supposedly beneficent policy. China has been driven—just as Mexico was driven many months ago—to suspend her silver standard altogether, and adopt a paper currency basis. The finance minister, H. H. Kung, tells the exact truth of record when he says that "With the rapid rise in the world price of silver, China's currency became seriously over-valued. There have been severe internal deflation, growing unemployment, wide-spread bankruptcies, a flight of capital abroad, a fall in government revenues and an adverse balance of payments." And has all this needless desolation in China been accompanied by any good to the United States? Not a particle. On the contrary, the exports of American goods to China have declined very sharply.

These events are closely in accord with the predictions made by thoroughgoing economists both of the Brookings Institution, for example, and of the United States Department of Commerce itself. Meanwhile, they are exact reverse of the prophecies and cock-sure rantings of inflationists and other monetary-tinkers. The tragedy for China—and it is not less than that—may serve good purpose if only the American people will take heed of the actual outcome, and grow more wary of the lures and pretended omniscience of pseudo-economists.—Boston Transcript.

EGYPT'S MOB celebrates "Independence Day," rioting against British control, compelling Egyptian police to shoot down the rioters, some killed, many wounded. Floyd Gibbons reports it for International News Service. The mob did not like an independence day with England in control.

Making an enemy of Italy, partly to please the so-called "black population of Egypt," which is not black, England can only exclaim with her most distinguished son, Shakespeare:

"Ingratitude, thou marble-hearted fiend."

Egypt is a danger spot for England, just now, and the British Empire itself needs the extraordinary talent and tact of British statesmanship to keep it safely strung around the world without breaking.

CHINA'S GENERAL SUN CHUAN-FANG, Japan's choice for leader of an independent movement in North China, will never lead that movement.

Like many men, he did not understand women and made a mistake when he executed a rival Chinese general. That general had a young daughter, and Chinese daughters have decided feelings about their fathers.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I...I...I

My idea of a good dinner is spareribs.

My messy office is really a public service...Visitors look at it, deplore it, and tell themselves that there is at least one individual in the world who is sloppier than they are. ...I should receive public commendation.

It's chilly in the morning, warm in the afternoon...My present problem is: Shall I wear my overcoat in the morning and be comfortable then, but too warm in the afternoon, or shall I leave the coat home and suffer in the morning and be comfortable in the afternoon...None of the great philosophers can give me any help in this matter.

Then pinochle players are unalterably convinced that their game is the greatest the human brain has ever devised...I wouldn't argue with them. I've watched a thousand pinochle games and still know nothing about it.

I used to know a doctor who never sent a bill and never kept any accounts. When you paid him, he told you to be sure to remember now much you still owed him because he couldn't take the trouble to remember...When he died, he left hardly any estate, but he is still remembered lovingly....He was a cynic in speech, but never in action.

I have a friend who says he can be a philosopher except when the north wind blows....Then he's a grouch.

Most of us are like the shiftless fellow who wouldn't fix his roof when it wasn't raining and couldn't fix it when it WAS raining..Ask any doctor if that isn't so.

An arrogant fellow sometimes gets further than he should because other people don't like to make a fuss...So sometimes making a fuss is almost a public obligation...The trouble is that usually when you "insist on your rights", you end by feeling more of a culprit than the fellow who forced you into it.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

JUST MARBLE.

Built to outlive any public building heretofore constructed in this country and to reflect the enduring qualities of the Court itself, the new home of the U. S. Supreme Court in Washington completed after four years, utilizes 455,000 cubic feet of marble. This is more marble than is in any other public building in the world, the architect of the structure believes.

Only the best materials were used in the construction of the building, and supervision of workmanship was extremely rigid. Marble was used as much as possible, the entire exterior being of the Vermont product. The main hall and all of the corridors are solidly marble.

Two typical examples of the high class of construction employed throughout the building are cited. Oversized steel, used in the columns, was given three coats of paint, enclosed in waterproof cement and finished off with a covering of fire proof tile. In the roof a concrete slab reinforced with steel was laid. Then a sheathing of copper was placed over the whole, then a four-inch air space and finally a roof of heavy tile.

Marble is a very rare and costly material. The steps of the Pyramids of Egypt were originally covered with marble. The Pyramids were scraped in the rebuilding of Alexandria, after the fire. There was probably more marble used in the building of the Pyramids than any other building constructed in the entire world, but the American likes to boast and so he says that the United States Hall of Justice now contains more marble than any other public building in the world.

Inflation Worries World.
Radio Priest Stirs Question.
Is Problem Of Loss And Gain.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th St.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Inflation—or not? That is the worry of both the business world and the administration.

It is true that government borrowing and excess bank reserves (which some day may break the dam) are a potent danger. But there is a possibility that the government and the banks, by means of powers within their hands, may be able to stem that.

"Printing press" money adherents cause the financial world more concern. They evidently are gaining.

The financial world looks upon the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, as stirring up a great emotionalism in favor of starting the presses going (although he asserts his plan is not as much "printing press" as the present method of money issuance). Father Coughlin is viewed as sincere in his beliefs, but the financial world, backed by many economists, hold that the radio priest may be mistaken in the results that would accrue.

The chief issue rises over the bonus. Shall it be paid by the issuance of bonds, or shall it be paid by the issuance of currency on the store of gold and silver the United States now holds in its vaults?

Bonds—against which the banks would issue currency—would cost a fortune in interest, as Father Coughlin points out. Bonds always cost a fortune in interest—he is correct.

Nor would the issurance of two billions in currency by the government cause any wild inflation.

But issuance of currency by governments has a depreciatory effect—and that (according to the bankers) is where the harm begins.

CREDIT

After all (say the bankers—merely to give their side of it) the value of money is not based so much on the quantity of gold and silver one has in his vaults as on his credit—and his debitis.

The United States now has more gold and silver in its vaults than any nation ever has had. But the dollar is a depreciated dollar, and government bonds have a tendency to sag.

Why? Because every day in the year Uncle Sam owes more. The gold and the silver won't begin to pay the national debt dollar for dollar. And there is no balancing of the outgo with the ingo—which, in the case of governments, means taxation.

* * *

PRINTING MONEY

But, then, we ask the bankers, as does Father Coughlan: "Surely, it is no worse for the government to print its own money, backed by its wealth, than to sell bonds to the bankers and pay them to issue currency or to lend money to the government, money that is in the form of credit advanced to them by the government?"

The bankers murmur "H'm" on that, and perhaps they answer something like this:

"When once a government begins printing money, instead of borrowing it, the people seldom are satisfied with the first taste. The demand more and more, as prices advance, until money becomes worthless.

"Then a few shrewd men can buy up the entire nation.

"Whereas, if a government borrows—and, mind you, we object to the borrowing, too—it is tacitly understood that the resources of the nation are collateral. The government puts into hock the resources of the nation and we bankers actually do lend credit, actual credit. We lend the savings of the nation, put the savings into hock with the government, virtually in exchange for taxes.

"When, however, the government loans exceed the savings of the nation, when they can be maintained merely through the creation by the government, of fictitious credit, then we have pure inflation, virtually the same as printing press money.

"We are for a balanced budget. We don't desire to lend money to the government. We are for our money being put to work at good rates for private industry rather than at poor rates, forced upon us by the government.

"As for all that gold and silver in the government vaults — what are those metals except commodities? If the government owes 30 billions and the quick resources of the nation don't total that, the gold and silver will be so much dead weight. Worse, it will be actually harmful, for it is withdrawn from circulation in other nations that could use it in facilitating trade dealings with us."

WHAT WAY OUT?

Now we go to a few independent economists. They agree that the government itself should be the sole issuer of money. But they believe that nationalization of banks would be a concomitant.

They do not agree with the issuance of more money either by banks or government.

It is natural, they say, for people to believe that the issuance of additional money will mean a greater spread of money.

They say that such a wish is father to the thought. It seems an easy manner in which to surmount all our problems. Issue more money—especially when there are billions in gold in vaults, and, lo, there IS more money.

But who would get the money? Not the millions of persons at work, not the millions of persons in the field. They still would be getting the same wages, while prices would rise. And why would prices rise? Because the more there is of a thing, the less it is worth. And this "thing" happens to be money. It would buy less and less.

Then, is there no way out? These economists then give an answer that is unpleasant.

"Yes," they answer, "there is a hard road. Tax as you spend. And if there is an inequitable distribution of earnings, then the social system ought to be readjusted so that each man shall obtain a greater share of the earnings.

"As it is, the president is spending billions without improving conditions fundamentally. Those who criticize him, however, are themselves subject to criticism. They would issue billions in currency, reducing the income of worker and businessman alike, through depreciated currency. The critics, as well as the president, seem to overlook the fundamental factor, the nub of the entire problem.

"When the products of the many accrue to the many then we shall have equilibrium—for it is not money that we lack, but distribution of earning power and consequent broadening of purchasing power."

Leadership Classes Attracting Interest At First Methodist

Second Session Is Conducted Thursday Evening By Ministers

The second session of the Leadership Training School was held on Thursday evening at the First Methodist Episcopal church with continued good attendance and interest.

Dr. G. S. Bennett, the instructor of the Old Testament course, took up the Period of the Judges which covered about 150 years. He dwelt in an interesting manner upon the outstanding leaders of this period, Ehud, Deborah, Gideon, Jepthah and Sampson.

The devotional period was conducted by Miss Anna Perry, the county administrative superintendent, assisted by D. S. Williams, as song leader. Miss Perry especially emphasized the importance of having Sabbath school members to memorize selected Bible verses.

The New Testament course, taugh by Dr. C. H. Heaton, had as its theme for this second session, the historical books of the New Testament. These were treated as to the general considerations, the four gospels, the main divisions and the Book of Acts. Many interesting sidelights were given.

The third session of the Leadership Training School will be held next Tuesday, November 19.

Elks Honor 'Dean' Of Former Rulers

City's Lodge Initiates Special Class As Tribute To Fanning

New Castle's Elks lodge joined with 2,000 other lodges of the order throughout the country last night in honoring Joseph T. Fanning, "dean" of the past grand exalted rulers of that national fraternity and now the executive editor of The Elks magazine.

In each and every one of the 2,000 lodges—in New Castle, too—special Joseph T. Fanning candidate classes were initiated. Exalted Ruler Bertram Davis presided as the local group initiated three new members.

President Roosevelt's scheduled radio address on "Americanism" to the Elks in their hundreds of lodge-rooms could not be made and so prominent Elks appeared in his place in the various lodgerooms. C. W. Herman Hess discussed "Americanism" here.

The special initiation class was a mark of the fraternity's high esteem for the order's former grand exalted ruler. It was the first time the B. P. O. E. has honored an individual in this manner.

Americanism: Forming opinions before we know the facts; manufacturing facts to justify the opinions.

Annual Devotion Starts Today At St. Vitus Church

Solemn High Mass And Procession Mark Opening Of Forty Hour Devotion

Impressive services at 9:30 o'clock this morning marked the opening of the annual forty-hour devotion in the St. Vitus church.

A solemn high mass, followed by a procession, with several hundred girls, attired in attractive white dresses, and altar boys, taking part, marked the opening rituals. A capacity crowd was in attendance. The South Side church has been decorated beautifully for the three-day religious event. This evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Fr. S. Ippolito, of St. Lucy's church, Mahoningtown, will deliver the sermon.

Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, the Blessed Sacrament will be exposed for adoration by parishers. Two masses will be celebrated from the side altar tomorrow morning at 8 and 8:30 o'clock. At services Saturday night, 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Fr. N. Pirullo, of Hillsville, will preach.

Sunday's services include four masses at the following time: 6:30, 8, 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock. These masses will be said from the side altar. The fourty-hour devotion will close with services at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening; sermons will be delivered by the Rev. Fr. Albert Farina, of Blairsville, former assistant at St. Vitus, and the Rev. Fr. Vincent Galliano, of Ellwood City. Some 20 priests of the district will take part. A procession will close the devotion.

More Seek To Go To Alaska Farm Colony

Some Who Left Now Trying To Return

(International News Service)

BASIN, Wyo., Nov. 15.—Colonists on the widely-publicized Matanuska project in Alaska now are for the most part well satisfied with their lot, despite rumors to the contrary, Don Irwin, agricultural director, wrote A. W. Koons of Basin, a friend.

Despite the wide publicity given some complaints of some of them, there are many others now in the U. S. who are eager to take their places. Irwin, former resident of Basin and at one time a member of the Wyoming legislature, revealed that he was receiving dozens of letters in every mail from persons asking to be allowed to take the places of colonists leaving the project.

"Despite the stories being circulated, to one here on the ground it would appear that things have gone very well," Irwin wrote. "True, we could have made better progress had the actual construction work been started earlier in the season, as it might well have been. Since it was started, however, it is going forward with a rush."

At the time of writing, Irwin said, 600 men from transient camps in the United States, 200 carpenters and laborers from the towns along the Alaska railroad and 175 colonists were hurrying to complete the houses and get people and livestock under cover before winter set in.

"To date we have either completed or have under construction 107 houses, with 63 yet to build," Irwin said. "I think it safe to say that 25 per cent of the remaining homes will be under construction in the next two days.

"The colonists are working hard, are considerate and expect to stay and make this their home. They are well clothed, well fed, are being supplied with nice homes, furniture, good stoves, sewing machines, power washers and good radios. It isn't pioneering as we think of it.

HUNTER IN THICKET IS SHOT IN LEGS

UTLER, Pa., Nov. 15.—The first hunting accident in Butler county this season occurred when Frank Kordick of Market street, Freeport, was shot in the legs while hunting in a thicket near Lernerville. The shot is said to have been fired by Wells Walker of Freeport. Paul Ross and Walker, companions of Kordick, placed the injured man in an automobile and removed him to the office of a Freeport physician.

Double Crime At Pittsburgh

Man And Woman Found Shot To Death In Home Early Today

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15. — While a radio blared, gunfire early today blotted out the lives of a pretty young wife and the friend with whom she fell in love while vacationing at Atlantic City last summer.

The victims were Mrs. Honora Bachus, 32, and a man believed to be Jack Fisher, 26, a night club entertainer from Atlantic City.

Their bullet riddled bodies were found by the woman's husband, Clement L. Bachus, 32, when he returned home from work early this morning.

Notes and love letters found in the apartment indicated the man was unable to remain away from Mrs. Bachus any longer because of his love for her and came to Pittsburgh by bus a few days ago.

Correct this sentence: "At your age," said the stern father, "I would have been ashamed to do such a thing."

McNair To Start Move To Clean-up Clarion River

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Armed with a battle fund of $1,500, the result of a week's appearance in a local theater as master of ceremonies, Mayor William N. McNair today was ready to begin his long awaited legal fight to clean up the Clarion river.

The mayor had entertained some doubts as to whether he could legally accept the pay check for his theatrical wise-cracking but City Solicitor William D. Grimes, after a search of the statute books, said there was nothing in the law to prevent the mayor from so doing.

The mayor also signed a contract appointing George D. Tyson as his agent to obtain contracts in other parts of the country.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

JANET IN CALIFORNIA

Out in California, where the sun is brightly shining
And the mountains, crowned with glory, stand like monarchs of the sky,
Little Janet for a glimpse of Fred Astaire today is pining
And is hoping Charlie Chaplin with his cane will swagger by.

There are scenes of wondrous splendor famed in history and fable.
The blossoms now are nodding on the lovely orange tree,
But Miss Janet smiles and tells me there's a fellow named Clark Gable
Living somewhere in this country and it's him she wants to see.

All unmoved she viewed the Rockies and the fertile valleys cheery.
We had thought such scenes would thrill her, but we find that we were wrong,
For she's dying, fairly dying, for a glimpse of Wallace Berry,
And she's hoping every minute Zasu Pitts will come along.

Furlough Is Ended, Goes Back To Navy

Furlough for Petty Officer W. B. Biddle came to an end this morning and he left New Castle for Norfolk, Va., to await the arrival of the U. S. S. Huston. The Huston is now undergoing its annual repairs in the New York navy yard. The U. S. S. Huston is the ship which was used by President Roosevelt in his recent cruise around the east coast. Biddle was a member of the crew at that time.

Maurice L. Nixon announces that W. B. Biddle will be promoted to the rank of seaman second class on November 18. Biddle's home is New Castle at R. D. 3.

Son's Aim Is Bad Father Still Lives

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 15.—William H. Keaton, 70, of Daugherty township, is alive today, due to the poor aim of his son Paul Keaton, 23. Police summoned to the Keaton home by the telephone message of Keaton, "I have just murdered my father," found the elder Keaton badly frightened but alive.

Keaton who fired twice at a distance of 12 feet, was held by police on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. The shooting occurred during a quarrel, police learned.

meeting, found Gen. Chuan-Fang and killed him, remarking in the Chinese language:

"Remember my father."

DR. C. A. ELSBERG, of New York's neurological institute, utilizing the sense nerve, controlling the sense of smell, detects brain tumors, even the smallest, and their exact location within the skull.

Such tumors affect the sense of smell, which scientists call "the forgotten sense," because we use it so little.

OUR "SENSES" putting us in touch with the outside world are so few and feeble that it is a pity to neglect the important sense of smell.

In many animals smell is even more important than sight or hearing, and while men no longer need it to track their prey or locate their enemies, they should keep that sense alive for its aesthetic value.

No man appreciates good wine who does not first enjoy its fragrance. Any educated Frenchman knows, blindfolded, the difference between Burgundy and Bordeaux without tasting either.

EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE saw the movies in Addis Ababa, unpleasant pictures of tanks and planes, taken behind the Italian lines. His wife saw a fashion parade; both saw New York City with its skyscrapers taken from the French steamer Normandie. He said:

"Marvelous city. We do want to visit America."

Mussolini may hurry the visit. The cultured Arabian emperor, if he comes, will be welcome.

NEW YORK CITY'S five thousand "kosher" butchers, who sell only meat from animals slaughtered by rabbis threatened to close their shops. The "New Deal" is too much for them.

Oscar Spitalnick, head of the Kosher Butchers' Federation, says:

"We cannot exist any longer. The prices of meat are too high."

THE NEW, mysterious commercial treaty with Canada may help solve the "kosher" and other butchers' price problem.

Nobody knows what is in the treaty, and Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, is in Washington, to say that the big cattle industry of his state doesn't want any Canadian beef cattle coming in duty free to compete.

IN SHANGHAI, children of Japanese residents are stoned by Chinese mobs, and Japan does not like that. You might see a real Japanese-Chinese war, replacing the present process of "nibbing off," or gradual attrition.

If that war comes, with 60,000,000 Japanese united and well armed against 400,000,000 Chinese, divided among themselves and not armed, this country will learn something.

MONEY LENDERS in New York, sometimes posing as "finance companies," or "small merchants willing to do a favor," find usury profitable. Messrs. "Curly" Kurland and Sam Faden, whom police call "usury racketeers," are convicted of charging as high as 1,000 per cent interest, and brutally beating borrowers if they fail to pay.

At the end of five weeks, the borrower owes double what he borrowed.

He can sympathize with the United States that issues "inflation bonds" and pays in interest on the average at least one hundred per cent of the principal.

EMPLOYES OF BELL PLANT ARE HONORED

Two employes of the New Castle plant department, Ralph F. Davis, and Fred T. Lipp, of the Bell Telephone Company have recently been honored with elections to the Telephone Pioneers of America, an honorary organization composed of men who have served the telephone company for 21 years.

Anybody can think up a way to save the nation. The hard part is to put it in a four-word slogan.

Another great need is an official standard so we could tell which of us should reform the rest of us.

Hopes To Use Cosmic Ray To Cure Sick

California Is Pioneering In New Field Of Research

(International News Service)

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 15.—With the high resolve of a Pasteur and the perseverance of a Galileo, a little known researcher here is toiling day and night to prove the following theory to the world.

"The cosmic ray sustains all life, regulates all things in the universe, and is the basic energy."

He is John Kalsey, sharp-eyed and intent pioneer in a line of research which he believes will open an entire new field of science and provide cures for cancer, tuberculosis and other malignant diseases.

In a laboratory built especially for cosmic ray research, he is pursuing this problem, and hopes to have the ray ready for medical use in six months. "I don't expect to be believed," he said.

"My theory is contrary to the present tenets of science. All I ask is that hospitals will allow me to install the necessary apparatus. Then my work is finished."

Most unusual in his equipment is a 102-foot collecting tower, tipped with pure radium to attract cosmic rays from the atmosphere, said to be the only tower of its kind in laboratory use.

Concentrated a million times over in strength the ray in the air is stored in the form of energy for practical use, Kalsey said.

"The value of the cosmic ray lies in its amazing power and its ability to be exactly focused on diseased tissue," he added. He expects it to be more successful as treatment than the X-ray and violet ray, which often cause secondary disease by injuring healthy flesh while being used to cure the diseased.

Cwyner Passes His Navy Examination

Word has been received by Maurice L. Nixon in charge of the local navy recruiting office, that John S. Cwynar of the West Pittsburg road, passed his final examinations at Pittsburgh and was admitted to Hampton Roads, Va. He will undergo a three months' training period at Hampton Roads at the conclusion of which he will be assigned to a battleship for sea duty. He left New Castle on Wednesday morning with Alfred Thomas, who also passed his final examinations.

John Cwynar is a member of the Holy Trinity church and he formerly attended Shenango high school.

ERIE CRIPPLE IS BURNED TO DEATH

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 15.—George Tupitza, 18-year-old cripple, was burned to death early today when fire destroyed a shack behind his home that he and other neighborhood boys used as a rendezvous.

Two youths seen with Tupitza just before the fire, believed to have started from an overheated stove, were sought by police for questioning. The boys had often slept in the shack overnight, police learned.

COUNCIL WILL TACKLE BUDGET MAKING SOON

New Plan Forces Action This Month

Increases In Personnell Of Police And Fire Departments Required

BUDGET MAKING PROVIDES PROBLEMS

Inasmuch as a uniform plan for budgets in cities of the Third class in Pennsylvania has been arranged by a committee representing such cities it will be necessary for councilmen to tackle the job of making 1936 appropriations earlier this year. It was reported today that already some of the officials have conferred with the city solicitor relative to the new system.

Councilman Albert Hoyland, director of accounts and finance when asked if the mayor-elect and councilmen-elect would be invited to the budget meeting replied: "I do not see why they should not. They can come in now if they care to."

The mayor-elect is Charles McGrath and the councilmen-elect J. Leon Fink and Myron (Doc) Rice. The outgoing members of council are Mayor Charles B. Mayne and Councilmen D. O .Davies and Albert A. Hoyland.

Rice Public Safety Head

Fink campaigned for the position as director of finance which Hoyland holds and it is generally conceded that Rice wants to fill the position Davies holds which is superintendent of the department of public safety.

No doubt there will be a meeting between the present and incoming council.

Under the new state law, each fireman and policeman shall have a day of rest in every seven. The police have enjoyed this since September. However, the firemen have not. Under an agreement reached sometime ago between Davies and firemen it was decided by the firemen to not ask for the day off until January, 1936.

It is said in city hall that as the result of this new law seven new firemen will be needed. Some time ago six were appointed. After-working vacation periods they were laid off until January. The police department is short, due to illness, resignations and the fact that Mayor Charles B. Mayne has named only a few police since he took office. At least five and possibly more police will be asked for.

In an event that new firemen and police are employed more money than was appropriated for salaries during 1935 will have to be provided. This and other problems, such as portable new equipment, may result in get-togethers by the councilmanic incumbent and those who take over the reins with Councilmen J. D. Alexander and B. F. Butler, in January.

To Launch Gunboat In Early December

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 15.—The gunboat Erie will be launched from the Brooklyn navy yard early in December as a salute in steel to a navy son's mother.

The mother is Mrs. Edward A. Knoll, Erie, mother of 12, who will christen the gunboat.

Surprised when she received official information from naval headquarters she had been named to Christen the new ship, Mrs. Knoll immediately saw the reason for her honor in her junior grade, U. S. N. lieutenant son, Denys W. Knoll.

Farmers Steadily Losing Their Land

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—American farmers are steadily losing their land and fast becoming a race of tenant farmers, E. R. Bowen, secretary of the Cooperative League declared here.

He urged farmers to cut down expenses by forming cooperative enterprises to purchase food and supplies at low cost. Through eliminating the middleman's profit, he said, great savings can be effected. Through this method, Denmark reduced its percentage of tenant farmers from 42 in 1850 to only three per cent now, he added.

TRACKS TORN UP BY TRAIN WRECK AT JEWETT, OHIO

(International News Service)

JEWETT, O., Nov. 15.—More than 150 men were at work today, clearing the wreckage resulting from the derailment of a 100-car Pennsylvania railroad freight train which took the lives of two trainmen.

Sixteen coal and three merchandise cars were derailed when the train struck the car of Edward Prather, New Rumley miner, who miraculously escaped unhurt. J. J. Burke, 48, the engineer, and Neil Brewer, 43, the fireman, both of Columbus, were killed in their overturned locomotive.

Derailed pony trucks tore up the ties for a quarter of a mile.

Judges Hildebrand and Chambers will hold divorce court on November 29. All cases that are to come up at this session must be filed by next Tuesday.

The case of W. L. Harris, trading as the Ellwood News Company against The Ellwood Taxi Company, M. J. Kraus and T. J. Cain, has been appealed by the defendant to the Superior court. Verdict in this case was in favor of the plaintiff for $717.51.

Candidates who were successful at the recent election are being notified officially in notices being sent out by Prothonotary R. M. Campbell. Each candidate is told how many votes he received, according to the official count.

Letters of administration in the estate of the late Peter P. Capitolo have been granted by Register and Recorder William R. Hanna, to decedent's wife, Mary E. Capitola. Letters in the estate of the late George C. Burns of Ellwood City, have been granted to Nina A. Burns.

Chicken thieves have been operating recently in some sections of the county, according to County Detective A. Sharp Leslie. Yesterday he was notified that a raid had been made on a farmer's flock in North Beaver township in daylight. The farmer and his family were away at the time. Detective Leslie is investigating.

Foreclosure of mortgages in the United States are still numerous according to statistics received by Register and Recorder, William R. Hanna. During the first nine months in communities representing 51 per cent of the population there were 144,948 foreclosures, in 1935, compared to 138,446 in 1934, and 154,969 in 1933. In Pennsylvania with 64 per cent of the population represented, there were 18,415 foreclosures in the first nine months of this year, 19,315 in 1934 and 20,994 in 1933. The statistics were prepared by the division of research of the Home Loan Bank Board.

The Citizens National Bank has filed a precipe for scire facias on a judgment against W. H. Glenn, Olive Pemberthy and the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company, co-executors in the estate of the late S. P. Pemberthy and asks that the heirs show cause why an execution should not be issued against property located in New Wilmington. The amount of the claim is $11,128.33. The sheriff has been given authority to serve Olive and Henry Pemberthy with notice by registered mail, as they are in California.

Preliminary papers in foreclosure proceedings have been filed by John Hink and Stephano Hink against Stanley Novak and Kathryn Novak, John Warobieko, executor of the will of Kathryn Novak. The mortgage involved was given April 2nd, 1932 for $1,950, and the amount now due is $2,145, including costs.

A test case which will be of interest here is being started in the Allegheny county courts to determine whether a county may legally tax the stock of foreign corporations, those incorporated outside of Pennsylvania. A dispute between owners of stock in foreign corporations and officials has arisen since the last session of the state Legislature, changed the former capital stock tax levy against foreign corporations to a franchise tax. The stockholders argue that the stock is taxed through the franchise assessment and should not again be subject to a personal property tax.

Report of viewers on a petition to vacate a public road in Slippery Rock township will be presented to court at the coming December session. The road is a portion of the highway known as the Mercer and Beaver public road, beginning at Center church and extending Eastward therefrom a distance of approximately 1,063 feet, and including the portions of the original highway between the two points named. The vacation is asked on account of changes in the road.

Viola Brown Lin To Seek Divorce

Believes East And West Marriages Can Succeed If Couples Are Left Alone

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 15—Pretty Viola Brown Lin, 24, estranged wife of James Lin, forster son of the president of China, believes east-west marriages will succeed if the "curious public" will let the young couples alone.

Back home after an unhappy romance, Viola today predicted Tatsuko Yamanoto, Japanese heiress, and her young American husband, George Huggins, "will be very happy" if reporters and curious neighbors let them alone.

Viola's Chinese husband has gone back to his bride in the Orient. She said she plans to file divorce suit here soon.

"We were very happy until people began prying into our home," she lamented.

Start Tests Of Low Cost Roads

Common Salt And Calcium Chloride To Be Tested Out

PICK SITES TO CONDUCT TESTS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 15.—Experiments with rock salt and calcium chloride treatments for stabilization of earth roads will be begun within a few days, Warren VanDyke, secretary of highways, said today.

Locations for experimental jobs are being studied.

If experiments prove satisfactory the secretary believes he will have solved the serious problem of low-cost hard-surfaced roads in sections where traffic requirements are not heavy. Mounting maintenance costs, entailed by the 35,000 miles of highway on the state system, are rapidly reaching the point where, unless precautions are taken, all available money will be spent in maintenance, leaving none for new consumption.

Thus a satisfactory surface treatment which will provide good roads at low initial cost and nomial maintenance is the present need.

Under present plans experiments will be conducted during the winter in each of the twelve engineering districts of the state. Results—durability, reaction to winter weather, etc.—will be studied carefully, and if satisfactory the work will be undertaken on a large scale as a matter of regular department construction policy on roads which carry a smaller share of the traffic burden, Major highways, will not be affected by the change, if and when it is made.

Stabilization, which has been tried with much success in other states, means merely that the native soil is loosened, the roadbed carefully drained, the soil replaced and leveled and a treatment of either ordinary rock salt or calcium chloride placed on top.

The salt or chloride tends to produce a slightly damp condition which will make clay in the native soil plastic. Thus by pressing down the top surface—a natural condition under traffic—the clay fills in between each of the particles which constitute the soil, pressing it into a solid mat which is the roadway.

In the event sufficient clay, sand or gravel is not present in the soil as it exists, additions are made from natural deposits in the neighborhood.

Constant traffic only makes the road harder and additional applications of the stabilizing materials are made from time to time to assure the necessary plasticity.

Contsruction costs in other states have ranged from $1200 to $2500 a mile, while maintenance costs as low as $50 per mile have been reported.

Fashions Change in Medication, Too—

This Modern Successor to Old-Style Cough Syrups Has Three Advantages.

Throats overtaxed by too much speaking, smoking or singing—or from coughs due to colds—now get handy relief with an especially medicated cough drop, instead of by gulping an old-fashioned cough syrup.

Vicks Medicated Cough Drop brings you time-tested, throat-soothing ingredients of Vicks Vapo Rub in convenient candy form. Dissolving naturally in the mouth, a handy Vicks Cough Drop applies direct medication to irritated membranes of the throat for from 12 to 15 minutes—at a cost of less than half a cent.

Less expensive, more convenient, and longer-lasting in effect, no wonder Vicks Medicated Cough Drop has become the modern successor to old-fashioned cough syrups.

Clark Gable And Wife To Separate

Screen Lover And Wife Come To The "Parting Of The Ways"

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. Nov., 15—"It's a case of temperament," Mrs. Rhea Gable declared here today in admitting she and her screen-lover husband, Clark Gable had come to the parting of the ways.

They agreed to a separation and made a property settlement preparatory to a possible divorce, several weeks ago and immediately afterwards Gable left alone for a tour of South America.

"Clark has been working quite hard within recent months," Mrs. Gable said in discussing the separation, "and has been very temperamental. Little differences, ordinarily of minor consequence, arose between us which, under stress, assumed grave proportions."

Gable, now in New York will take up his residence in a Hollywood Hotel upon his return here, while. Mrs. Gable retains the couple's Brentwood mansion.

MY NEW YORK

By JAS. ASWELL

(Copyright, 1935, by Central Press Assn.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Penwheels: All the town's celebrated limnsters in line and color are outraged that the annual Society of Illustrator's Show should have been raided by police meanies....But the episode is furnishing the daubers with no end of free publicity and in the weeks to come, as it is thrashed out delectably on the front pages, I predict that they will all be in it up to their necks, getting their share of lineage....I have seen several of these shows and, of course they are far more daring than any Broadway show and from the standpoint of exposed epidermis, more daring than the general run of burlesk and night club shows—but the point which good Commissioner Valentine and his aides overlook is that it is a family affair....The artists are not shocked by what they have helped produce and work with every day, anyhow, and no one profits a dime from the exhibit....Thus it is sharply to be differentiated from the burlesk commercial filth.....

Judging indecency easily gets into the realm of metaphysics into the supposed reactions of audiences and such shadowy stuff, but the surest indication of the motives behind the Illustrator's Show is to be found in the fact that the artists who produce it (for charity) stage a dress rehearsal every year to which their wives and families are invited ....My own reaction is that, even assuming that the show is indeed naughty and that it endangers the morals, if any, of the various politicos and other invited guests, the risk is well worth while if the proceeds keep a few struggling artists from starvation....And the proceeds usually do.....

* * *

Vignette: Babe Ruth, large, grinning and hearty, elbowing his way out of the Ambassador Theatre into the Times Square crush at midnight.....Incidentally, what has happened to the noise-abatement program, which had every taxidriver afraid to toot his horn?....

Shut your eyes in Longacre Square district when the showshops adjourn and see if you can detect any diminution in the clamor—or even sweeter, milder notes.....

Suggestion for visiting peekers and peerers; the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens where thousands of migratory birds pause at this season of the year in their flight south....William Dieterle, the Hollywood megaphoner, would not think of coming on the set without a pair of snow-white gloves....Why he wears them no one knows and he gives a different explanation every time he's asked....More likely it's simple Hollywoodenitis.

* * *

Next to Berlin, London is one of the more difficult towns to get a haircut in—of the model to which most Americans are accustomed....Yet the shearing parlors here place great accent on "English barbers"....One small tonsorium in the tungsten belt has decorated its windows with testimonial photographs of Noel Coward, Herbert Marshall and other more or less celebrated gentlemen....Louise Fazenda, of old silent film renown, is sending her New York friends peanuts from her highly prosperous California farm.....

If you wonder why it is that the newsreels show all scoring plays of the big football games, since the filmers can't know in advance whether to shoot a given scrimmage—the answer is that the whole game is filmed....About 12,000 feet of celluloid to the contest or more footage than is seen for an entire story like, "Mutiny on the Bounty." ....From this some 150 feet are screened to show absent fans the important plays....Now the Rialto drink-dispeners have taken to serving hot canned soup to take up the winter slackness in demand for cold fruit beverages.

Civic Events Find Scouts 'Prepared'

'Do A Good Turn' Motto Applied By Boys Here In Various Ways

"Do a good turn daily" is ever present in the minds of the New Castle Boy Scouts and therefore calls for Scouts to do civic good turns are readily answered. Some of the recent civic good turns were flag raising, traffic duty, ushering, distributing posters and literature.

Scouts Bob Cole, Jim Rucker, George Sloan, Wilbur Sloan, Bill Comstock and Robert Howe of Troop V-37 were in charge of the flag raising ceremony on New Castle Day at Taggart field. Scouts Eldred Ubry, Robert Green, Chalmer Sproull, Ted Sproull, J. Clarke, Ernest Withers, Don Woodworth, Bill Batten, James Hewitt, and Dave Ferguson of Troop V-18 gave service in traffic duty at the New Castle-Martins Ferry game under Chief Police John Haven.

Scouts, who placed posters for the American Red Cross campaign were: Robt. McCormick, Alvie Stimple and Jack McKibben of Troop 12; Everett Hoffman, Raymond Flavion of Troop V-15; Ernest Withers, Eugene Biese, James Hewitt, and David Ferguson of Troop V-18; Robert Howe, Jim Rucker, and Bob Cole of Troop V-37; and Jack Gaston of Troop 55.

The City Rescue Mission called for scouts to distribute material for them. Eighteen scouts responded to this call. The scouts were Roger Hawk, Lester Raub, Bob Back, and Donald Gibson of Troop 3; Frank Clarke, Raymond Flavion, Chuck Pherson, Henry Grooms, and Phillip Marotti, Bob Bobosky of Troop V-15; Bob Green, Bob Johns, George Stitzinger and Chauncey Schaller of Troop V-18; Samuel Davy, Albert Moss, John Krepps, and Oliver Kerr of Troop 4.

Bankers Ask Government To Drop Business

Urge That Federal Government Retire From Banking Field At Once

SALT LAKE MAN NAMED OFFICIAL

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—After the formal election of Orval W. Adams of Salt Lake City, an outspoken critic of the national administration as second vice president of the American Bankers' association, a new demand that the government withdraw from the fields of private business was sounded Thursday.

Asks U. S. To Get Out Of Private Business

Acknowledging the prevailing business sentiment that recovery is making vigorous progress, the resolutions committee of the American Banking association called upon the federal government to retire as rapidly as possible from the fields of private business, and especially from the banking field.

In a report submitted to the sixty-first annual convention of the A. B. A. today, the resolutions committee stated:

"With the passing of emergency conditions from a large portion of our national economy, and with increasing evidence that the full restoration of industrial enterprise under private finance and initiative is essential to complete return of recovery, we believe the time is at hand for recognition as a matter of national policy or the need for the retirement of the federal government as rapidly as possible from the field of control and operation of the nation's industrial, commercial and financial enterprise into which it has entered so widely."

Charges Against Girls Dismissed

Notables Of Art World Attend Hearing In Harlem Court

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Charges against five pretty girls of giving indecent performance at the swank annual show of the Society of Illustrators were dismissed Thursday after the start of their celebrated trial in a packed, steaming, avid Harlem court.

In the snickering, craning audience were some of the nation's most distinguished—and for a while most outraged—artists, illustrators and writers.

There were Dean Cornwell, McClelland Barclay, Ham Fisher, Arthur William Brown, Frank Godwin, Rube Goldberg, Philip Dunning, "Sport" Ward and Wallace Morgan, just to mention a few.

Championing the girls, the artists sat in the smirking audience with expressions of high indignation which changed to smiles of triumph as Magistrate Thomas Aurelio dismissed the case.

Juror Dies From Sudden Attack Of Acute Indigestion

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 15.—Richard Helmar, 34, member of a jury hearing a case in which the commonwealth was seeking a death penalty Thursday collapsed in the jury box and died of acute indigestion.

In a vain effort to revive Helmar, the prosecutor administered artificial respiration until a physician arrived. Helmar was a juror in the trial of William Clark, a negro, accused of slaying Meyer Altenberg, a Philadelphia merchant, during a holdup last May.

Upholding the defense counsel's contention that the trial was stopped by an "act of God," the court ruled the case a mistrial.

No Leniency For Drunken Drivers

They Are To Be Fingerprinted Same As Other Criminals

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15—Drunken drivers in Pittsburgh will be given th same treatment as ordinary criminals.

They'll be photographed and fingerprinted just as any other criminal and the records will be filed away for the future for use if their offenses are repeated.

Aroused by the growing menace of drunken driving, Police Superintendent Jacob F. Dorsey ordered the "ugging" and fingerprinting of intoxicated motorists after appeals and other means failed. Under Dorsey's orders, all drunken drivers arrested will be taken to the Bertillon room after a city physician has pronounced them intoxicated. If they are dissatisfied with the findings of the city physician, they may call one of their own choosing.

In addition to Dorsey's vigorous drive to stamp out the drunken driving peril, Allegheny county judges have indicated they are prepared to hand out salty sentences in order to safeguard the lives of pedestrians and motorists. Typical was the comment from the bench of Judge Joseph A. Richardson, after handing out a six months' workhouse sentence:

"Drunken driving must stop. We won't gamble with the lives of innocent people by countenancing the combination of an auto and a drunken driver."

Driving an automobile while intoxicated is a misdemeanor under Pennsylvania law, according to Dorsey. Therefore, drunken drivers can be fingerprinted legally under the state laws, he explained. The records will be kept in a separate file.

Accidents involving drunken drivers have increased 75 per cent since repeal, according to state officials. Because of vigorous police campaigns here and in other sections of the state, officials hope for a decline.

From December, 1933, when prohibition went into the discard, until October of this year, 3,715 or 3.9 per cent of the 94,304 traffic accidents reported were blamed on drunken drivers. This compares with 2,123 or 2.7 per cent of the 77,767 accidents reported for the previous 22 months. During the same period, all accidents increased more than 20 per cent, according to state records.

Transportation Problem Now Near Solution

After weeks of work and worry the solution of the transportation snarl in the Works Progress Administration seems to be fairly close at hand. Director J. Vale Downie has been endeavoring to get some satisfactory solution of the question for many weeks.

The difficulty had been this. Men are assigned from New Castle to road projects throughout the county. A man from New Castle has to be at his project in Harlansburg or Enon Valley, or Perry Township and if he has no automobile must pay for his transportation.

Weeks ago Edward N. Jones, state administrator in Harrisburg promised a delegation of workers from New Castle that arrangements for trucks would be made. These arrangements are now being brought to a head and inside of a week it is hoped that the matter will be straightened out.

Lawrence County Has FHA Record

Are Ninth In List Of Loans Approved In Western District Of Pennsylvania

In a letter received from Theodore F. Smith, director of Western Pennsylvania for the Federal Housing Administration by M. Feuchtwanger, director of Lawrence County F. H. A., Mr. Smith stated that a total of almost two million dollars in Modernization Loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration has been made in Western Pennsylvania.

A total of 29 counties comprises the Western Pennsylvania district. In the record by counties, Lawrence stands ninth in the list of loans made by the banks for Better housing conditions. An average estimate shows that for every F. H. A. Modernization Credit Loan job, six similiar jobs with other types of financing have been generated by the Housing Program.

If this is true there has been over thirteen million dollars worth of modernization work done in Western Pennsylvania since summer a year ago.

The cooperation of the Banks operating under a permit of the government to make these loans in Lawrence county has materially helped the cause of Better Housing Improvements.

Everyday many F. H. A. applications are received by Marcus Feuchtwanger at the office of the Better Housing Campaign at 420 Greer Building.

Stenographer To Be Employed

Council met in the city building today and issued authority to Finance Director Albert A. Hoyland to employ a stenographer for the purpose of making forms upon which will be set out the appropriations for 1936.

Hoyland said that the time for making the budget is growing near and that no forms have been received from the state. He advised council to authorize the employment of a stenographer so forms can be made and the budget making for next year not delayed.

Pushing Work On Pay Checks

Pay Roll Checks For Workers In District 14 Have Been Delayed

TEN THOUSAND MEN WORKING

Working night and day the financial division of the Works Progress Administration has been endeavoring to loosen the jam of pay roll checks that have been held up for the workers in district 14. With over 10,000 men working on projects in the four counties and all pay roll checks clearing through the headquarters office here, there has been a jam and the result has been that men who have been taken off relief have been put back on in order to get them money for food and other necessities.

With the increase of the employed lists in the Works Progress Administration has been a gradual reduction in the relief forces. Already fifteen investigators have been dispensed with and with the return of some 350 cases to the relief rolls the work of the investigators on the job has been increased. They also have been put to the necessity of working nights to relieve the pressure.

In the other three counties of the district it has been necessary to return men to relief rolls for the time being, even though they are working on projects. Under the system as set up a man was supposed to be kept on relief until his first pay check came through, presumed to be about two weeks. Because of the jam in the district and state offices checks have been held up for four and five weeks.

Relief Administrator James W. Moorhead has endeavored to take care of all cases and on the WPA side the time department has been working at top speed to get the pay rolls through. It is hoped that within a week or two the difficulties will be ironed out and the pay rolls for project workers will be delivered to the men on time.

ALL SUNSHINE, NO CLOUDS IN THEIR YOUNG LIVES!

Smiling, laughing and cooing are these babies, all residents of St. Petersburg, Fla. And why shouldn't they smile?—the sun shines for them every day, it is said. So much so that all eight of them have been taught to walk and talk without knowing of a sunless day. Citizens of St. Petersburg claim that the sun has been shining ever since June 14, 1934. They boast of it so much that a newspaper is given away free any day the sun fails to shine.

Will Confer On Tax Exemption

County, School Board And Council To Discuss Exoneration Proposed

Members of council at their meeting today in city hall decided to call a conference of members of the school board, county commissioners and themselves for the purpose of ascertaining if the school directors and the county commissioners were willing to exempt the Carnegie Steel company of taxation on the auditorium and site, formerly occupied by the Rosena furnace, if the city takes over the use of the building and grounds. The conference may be held next week.

The decision followed Solicitor Robert White's information to council that the city would have no trouble in securing the auditorium and Rosena site but added that the city cannot take over the property alone owing to the school and county taxes. He recommended the exemption of taxation and believed, he said, that at a conference of the parties concerned such a recommendation would be favored.

Arrest Two On Liquor Charge

Hundred Gallons Of Illegal Liquor Found In Automobile In Mercer County

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Nov. 15—Corporal Marcus White, commander of the state police detail here, is holding two Taretum men on an illegal liquor transportation charge and expects to turn them over to the liquor control board.

Police, who were stopping automobiles on the leading highways in an effort to capture an escaped convict desperado, James Jeffries, happened upon the liquor cache in the Ford car of the Tarentum men.

The two, Joseph McNally, 21, of Grantham street, and Harry Finden, 26, of East Sixth street, were immediately arrested and taken from the place where they were stopped, between Sharon and Mercer, in Jefferson township, to the Mercer barracks.

Police Pensions Must Be Provided

Council Informed That Provision Must Be Made For Pensions

City Solicitor Robert White today told council during their meeting at the city building that council must make provision for a police pension fund when they compile the appropriations for 1936.

A state law calls for a police pension fund and accoriding to White, the city must provide for the fund, one-fourth of one per cent of all money the city received for general revenue purposes this year.

According to White, the general revenue is about $320,000. Under the state's plan the city would be called upon to appropriate to the fund $800, and the police must appropriate a similar amount.

Seek To Cancel Steel Contract

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—As the nation-wide hue and cry over the use of German-made steel in PWA projects continued undiminished today, officials of the tri-borough bridge authority revealed that every effort is being made to cancel the Nazi steel ordered for the span.

The sub-contractor and the firm that is importing the steel were both cooperating with the bridge authority.

Nathan Burkan, chairman of the authority, reiterated his belief the contract is legal, but expressed the hope the Woodcrest Construction company, sub-contractors, would be able to annul it.

Education Should Produce Real Man

State Superintendent Of Schools Dr. Lester Kelly Ade, Gives Ideas

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 15—Pennsylvania's new superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Lester Kelly Ade, believes that the aim of education should be "to produce a man, a master of himself . . . so that whatever he says, thinks, or does, really comes from him."

To accomplish this objective, Dr. Ade calls for a public school which is "less an institution of unmeaning routine and "more of a self-directing, dynamic society of juveniles and adolescents."

Dr. Ade, native-born Pennsylvanian whom Gov. George H. Earle summoned back home from connecticut to assume charge of the state's public school system, discussed his ideas about education in an article "Philosophy of education in modern time," which was printed in the education bulletin in October.

Dr. Ade said: "Old codes, old conventions and old traditions of be havior are obviously breaking down. If ever there was a generation that needed inward spiritual quality, fine judgment, high tastes, great faiths in the midst of a situation where old codes have gone and new codes have not yet come, it is the present generation.

"Character building, it seems to me, will always be the highest and ultimate aim of all education. In my opinion, the aim of education is to produce a man, a master of himself, capable of initiating his own acts, responsible for his acts, able to discern and assimilate the ideas which he accepts and professes, so that whatever he says, thinks, or does, really comes from him.

"School organization must be fashioned in terms of the growth of children into adult membership of society. It must be less an institution of unmeaning routine and demands to which children are requested to conform; it must be more of a self-directing, dynamic society of juveniles and adolescents."

Hand in hand with this revitalized type of education, Dr. Ade said there is a need for "master craftsmen" in the art of teaching. He quoted an authority who said a teacher is "one who has the power to create a social atmosphere that is surcharged with the spirit of industry and mutual helpfulness; he is neither a task setter nor a time keeper; he is a comrade and, in his presence, individual effort and group cooperation are easy and natural."

Reunites Families Scattered By War

(International News Service)

PARIS.—Now, 20 years later, 50 families who became separated during the Great War, are enjoying the happiness of reunion thanks to one man.

M. Lechantre of Saint Quentin, who lost two sons in the War, set himself the task of tracing the families to whom lost individuals belonged.

Hundreds of children strayed from their parents during evacuation days and for nearly 10 years now M. Lechantre has been trying to find their families.

One of the most striking cases has been that of a baby who was picked up by British soldiers in the ruined streets of a northern town in France. The baby had grown to manhood by the time his mother had been found.

Discovers Pen Of Taj Mahal Builder

(International News Service)

CALCUTTA.—An exquisite jade pen box which belonged to the Moghul Emperor Jahangir Shah, builder of the Taj Mahal, has just been acquired in romantic circumstances by the Maharaja Tagore, avid collector of antiques.

Eleven and a half inches long and nearly four inches wide, the box is decorated with a delicate gold lacquer design, and bears an inscription in Persion reading:

"What has happened to your pen? It is inside the penholder. Badshah Jahangir. 1682 A. D. "

It is carved out of one block of jade, and is mounted on a base of silver, which bears the inscriptions from the Koran.

"I picked it up from a dealer who apparently knows very little about antiques", the Maharaja said, but I would not part with it for $50,000. It is of intense historic interest, and might really be said to be priceless".

Plane Guides Lost Man Out Of Swamp

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga.—To Wray Smith, of Atlanta goes the possible distinction of being the first aviator to tell a lost man the way back to civilization.

Flying over the Santee river swamp in South Carolina last week Smith was able to locate a man who had been lost for six days. The plane was flying equipped with a loudspeaker capable of amplifying the human voice 200,000 times.

After spotting 60 year old C. W. Coward, the flier gave him vocal instructions through the loudspeaker and directed him out of the swamp.

GETTING IT RIGHT

"Now you must be very careful how you answer," said the counsel, "and not say anything that is not strictly true. You drive a milk cart, don't you?"

"No, sir."

"But I thought you did. What do you do for a living, then?"

Kentucky Court Upholds Guffey Coal Control Act

(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 15—The Guffey bituminous coal conservation act, setting up a "little NRA" for the coal industry today held the approval of the United States district court here.

In a decision given late yesterday federal Judge Elwood Hamilton declared the act constitutional. It was the first federal district decision on the act.

Former federal Judge Charles L. Dawson announced today that there would be an appeal to the supreme court. The former judge, who had a long record of ruling against acts of the present administration, is representing a number of Kentucky coal operators.

Answers Attack

"When states fail or are unable to perform a public duty, the doctrine of state's rights should not be a barrier to the federal government rendering an essential service to the human race," one section of the 59 page opinion of Judge Hamilton Read.

The decision was in answer to attacks of several phases of the Guffey act. Collection of the 15 percent tax was one of the targets of the operator's suit.

Judge Hamilton said that the long poverty of the miners sat up a dangerous situation and suggested it had been relieved by the Guffey act.

BULGARIA NOW HAS A 'LITTLE AMERICA'

(International News Service)

BANSKO, Bulgarian Macedonia, Oct. 10.—This quaint town is called "Little America" because every other Bansko man and many of its women, have for short or longer periods been in the United States.

Visitors are surprised to hear people out in the fields speaking American. An International News Service correspondent met a donkey driver who kept on cussing his animals by repeatedly damning them in clear cut American fashion. Upon inquiry he said he had worked in the Pennsylvania mines.

"No, sir, I no speak much American, but I can swear in it all right."

Bansko people were among the earliest Macedonians to venture to America. At the beginning they went there to study only. Later on many crossed the Atlantic in the quest of better fortune and wealth. In returning home with the money they had scraped together they bought property and built houses. The best houses in Bansko are built with American cash. A man who once had a restaurant in Chicago now owns the best buildings in the town.

Issue Bulletin To Aid Foremen

Will Distribute Copies To School And Industrial Leaders

HARRISBURG—How foremen of industrial plants may conduct conferences to improve operation methods, increase efficiency and develop cooperation among workers, is described in a new bulletin published by the Department of Public Instruction. It is called "Conference Planning and Leadership as Applied to Foremanship Training," and is designed to aid conference leaders in conducting foremanship training programs. Copies will be distributed soon to school and industrial leaders already engaged in such activities, and those who plan to put them into effect.

The new bulletin includes recommendations of a number of industrial and educational people who have conducted successful foremanship training conferences. It is based on the work of leaders in this field and on data obtained from a special study of reports of many foreman training conferences.

EXCELLENT SERVICE

The department of justice was hunting a criminal, but the only picture of him they had was a strip of six photographs.

This strip was sent to a small town, and shortly afterward the following telegram reached the department:

"Have found four of the wanted men. Hope to get other two soon."

Salvation Army Plans Its Drive

December Campaign For $2,500 For 1936 Discussed At Board Session

Campaign plans were drawn up last night for the local Salvation Army's December drive for a fund of $2,500 to finance its operations throughout 1936.

Members of the advisory committee, assembled in the Elk's club, discussed various plans and committees were appointed by the campaign director, Mrs. Lucy E. Lyons, to secure campaign rooms and the campaign chairmen for the women's and men's divisions.

Mayor-elect Charles E. McGrath was present and was introduced by the chairman of the meeting, William McKinney White, the advisory board's chairman. Ministers and laymen were among those present.

Adjt. W. B. Fowle, Pittsburgh, reported the operations of the past year and spoke of the need for $2,500 for 1936. His report was accepted and warmly commended.

Officers Captain G. Bevan and Lieut. Alec Nicol were introduced to the board.

English Here Is Rated Better Than In Britain

This Is The Opinion Of Two British Experts Who Have Studied It

(International News Service)

LONDON — American English comes closer to the good old Elizabethan language that that spoken by the 1935 Englishman.

And American slang goes right back to Shakespeare.

In the midst of a controversy throughout England over the use of "Americanese" in the Hollywood-made "A Midsummer Night's Dream," two eminent British Shakespearean authorities rallied to the defense of the Warner opus.

"American English is the English of Shakepeare's day with its own somewhat conservative development," Prof J. Isaacs of King's College, told International News Service

"In certain mountain districts of the American border states and in the South, Shakespeare's own voice has been preserved, together with the older ballads of tradition. So that it would be true to say there is more likelihood of finding Elizabethan English in America than in England.

"It is not the elegant language of today but the popular meaty language of idiom and intonation of the people.

"If Shakespeare were to hear of someone being 'fired out,' he would recognize a line from his own Sonnets. If someone said he would 'tell the world,' Shakespeare would regard it as a tribute to his own 'Twelfth Night,.'"

Dr. G. B. Harrison, author of "Shakespeare at Work" and three volumes of "Elizabethan Journals," said:

"There is very little of what is called American accent in this film. A touch of dialect in the scenes of 'Bottom' and his mates is quite in keeping.

"A good deal of nonsense is talked about the American accent. Those who have never lived in America do not always realize there are almost as many different brands of American accent as there are states.

"The extreme kind of twang certainly jars one but so does the accent of a man from the English midlands.

"In fact, certain kinds of American accent are far nearer to the English that Shakespeare spoke than the cultivated standard of a British radio announcer. Some of us would have a shock if we could hear Shakespeare speaking his own lines."

You Inherit Wedded Bliss

(International News Service)

STANFORD, Cal.—A happy married life is an inherited blessing.

Plotting the case histories of 99 California marriages, Drs. Lewis M. Terman and Paul Buttenwieser of Standford university, today had included this scientific revelation in a survey.

The happily married have generally inherited a disposition a little more amiable than that of the unhappy marital victim, the researchists said.

Eighty-three per cent of the cases investigated reported reasonably happy marriages by their parents. Other findings included:

Differences in age need not cause unhappiness. Children are not a guarantee of a blissful home. Outside interests shared by husband and wife is an important factor.

BEAT HIS STORY

(International News Service)

ELKADER, Ia.—Leroy Meyer and Ralph Koons are trying to make their friends believe this one—while they were towing a car, one of the tires came off, rolled a short distance down hill, described an arc, rolled back, and fastened itself securely back on the rim from which it had come loose. They are earnest, but there are skeptics.

Yes, you should write perfect English—if your object is to impress college professors.

Meat Shortage In France Due To Italy's War

(International News Service)

PARIS—A shortage reported in the French wholesale calf and young bull trade and was traced today to enormous exports to Italy within recent weeks. The Italian warriors in East Africa apparently are going in for bully beef such as the American soldiers ate on the Western Front, for the animals are being killed and tinnned before shipment.

The first effects of the new export trade was felt at the enormous stockyards at Bordeaux and the La Villette region of Paris. Wholesale buyers found difficulty in placing orders, and today they found they were unable to obtain full delivery of contracts already signed.

Those who are able to obtain delivery find the prices have gone up $6.50 a head. Inquiry made here revealed that the animals which come from the Midi and the center of France, are being bought on the spot by French interests on behalf of Italian interests.

Had No Ticket; Fine Is Refused

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Texas—"I want to pay my fine for running a red light" said the neatly dressed bearded man as he stepped up to traffic Clerk L. Engledow.

"Where's your ticket?" asked the clerk.

"Oh, I don't have one," explained the culprit.

"Nobody saw me run the light, but I did it and I want to pay my fine."

Engledow explained that the bureau couldn't take the money unless the man had been given a ticket by an officer.

Battery Station Employe Burned

Louis Sankey, employe of the Exide battery station, had his right hand burned at two p. m. today when a pan containing an inflammable liquid caught fire. The young man was rushed to a nearby physician's office.

The fire department was called. The blazing pan was removed to the rear of the Exide station by employes.

Chinese Fleeing Before Invading Japanese

Photo taken before present crisis in Japanese-Chinese relations developed, shows throngs of Chinese fleeing from Shanghai area in fear of wrath of Japanese, who laid seige to nearby Chapei in 1932. Killing of Japanese marine in Shanghai has provoked new Japanese aggression, and Tokyo's spokesmen are declaring that North China must be set up as independent state similar to Manchukuo.

Man Selassie Fears Most Is Kept Like "Man In Iron Mask"

Former King Of Abyssinia Was Deposed As Being Mentally Unfit

(International News Service)

ADDIS ABABA—All the resources of modern and ancient gaolers, including electric alarms, barbed wire and savage watchdogs, are being used by the Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia to keep prisoner the man whom he fears most in the world—Lij Jassou, deposed king of Abyssinia and grandson of the great Menelik who routed the Italians at Adowa, it was learned here.

He was deposed and imprisoned as mentally unfit by Menelik's daughter Zaiditu, who seized the throne with the help of the present emperor. Also a grandson of Menelik, who succeeded when she died.

Lij Jassou, who has been a prisoner for 12 years, has been under close guard in a villa-fortress on top of the precipitous Garamoulata mountain near Harar, but preparations were made long ago to move him to keep him out of Italian hands.

As chief pretender to the throne of Ras Tafari and a figurehead of the Ethiopian Moslems, he would be a most useful tool in the hands of the Italians, who are believed to have plotted his escape.

Hence the extraordinary care taken to keep him a prisoner. His wrist is fastened by a solid gold chain to that of a guard, who has been warned that he will be shot if his charge escapes. A famous soothsayer, the priest Aba Hanna, a faithful adherent of the emperor, acts as principal gaoler, while 300 picked armed guards patrol the approaches to the villa by day and night.

Barbed wire fences with electric alarm signals, high stone walls and trained sheep-dogs surround the house, formidable obstacles to any attempt at rescue from the outer world.

Nevertheless, the emperor has ordered that his royal prisoner must be treated with the greatest consideration. Aba Hanna can draw generously from the royal treasury to satisfy his wants, and the villa-prison is handsomely furnished.

Champagne, liqueurs and other delicacies together with any books or magazines he may desire are provided for the deposed monarch, who is also entertained by a phonograph and a piano.

He is allowed to have female company, and is permitted to stroll every day in the grassy courtyard of his prison under guard.

Spiked Fruit Cake O. K. For Arkansas

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Residents of nearby Arkansas can have their spiked fruit cake this Yuletide and eat it without having to contribute an additional penny or two towards the Arkansas liquor tax.

Ceylon B. Frazer, attorney, received this ruling recently from Revenue Commissioner Earl R. Wiseman at Little Rock.

"Friut cakes couldn't be sold anywhere except at a liquor store if I held that the seller had to take out a liquor license," Mr. Wiseman explained.

Mr. Frazer wrote for the opinion when a chain grocery store he represents decided to sell the cakes in Arkansas.

The grocery does not plan to market their product in dry Tennessee but in wet Arkansas, the Arkansas official was advised.

John K. Morrow of the Pennsylvania State Department of Highways of Pittsburgh was a visitor at the local highway offices today.

Of 4800 women interviewed, only 14 said they were satisfied. We had no idea there were that many fellows like Clark Gable.

House Cat Has Wildcat Mate

(International News Service)

HOUSTON—It's a wise child that know its own father. But what about a poor kitten that had a domestic cat for its mother and a wildcat for its father

That's the sad predicament of four kittens which belong to F. F. Sneigr, who lives on his 100-acre tract near Hockley. His cat, Fiffy, had a yen for these furringers. In fact, she had it pretty bad, for when they moved to Waller county, where men are men and wildcats are no joke, Fluffy began to fool around with the local boys. Mr. Sneigr's dogs resented the situation, and chased Fluffy's first boy friend up a tree.

Nothing daunted by her untimely bereavement, Fluffy made up to another handsome stranger.

Three of the litter were males, one a female. Two are a pale shade of pink, one is gray and white, and the fourth red and white. They have wildcat's ears and a wildcat's disposition. They sleep in trees every night. They recognize no master. They grab their food and take it up a tree to eat it. They aren't the least bit sociable.

Meanwhile Fluffy roams the woods. Apparently she's looking for her third husband.

News Advertisement Returns Lost Watch

"It pays to advertise" is a truism that needs no repetition but now and then something happens to put new emphasis upon the axiom.

Mrs. Harold Stevenson of Wallace avenue had the misfortune to lose a valuable watch given to her by her father who was a jeweler. As soon as she discovered the loss Mrs. Stevenson put an ad in The News.

The paper was off the press but a few minutes when Mrs. David Valensi, of Lincoln avenue noticed it. She had found the watch and returned it to Mrs. Stevenson.

More British Troops Being Sent To Egypt

(Copyright, 1935, By International News Service)

ADEN Arabia, Nov. 15.—Britain is rushing more troops to Egypt, in view of the Cairo riots and tension on the Libyan border, it was learned here today.

An extraordinary official circular cancelled the home leave of several hundred British officers and soldiers who had embarked for England aboard the transport Nevassa yesterday.

Instead of continuing immediately to "Blighty," the disappointed soldiers will presumably be sent to Cairo until the present crisis ends.

Order In Cairo

London, Nov. 15.—Heavy military patrols today preserved order in Cairo, where two days of anti-British rioting left five Egyptians dead, but the political situation remained critical, and reinforcements stood by for any emergency, dispatches said.

Rogers Turned Down By Butler

Mary Pickford's Servant Fails To Recognize Noted Humorist

MEMORIAL DRIVE AT HALFWAY MARK

Mary Pickford recalls the time Will Rogers was refused admittance to her home because a butler did not recognize the humorist who presented himself unannounced and clad in a cowboy uniform.

But as usual Rogers was not concerned about himself. He thought only of the trouble that might befall the butler after he departed, as a result of the episode.

Mary Pickford tells the story in her own words:

"One day Mr. Rogers came to Pickfair dressed in his cowboy clothes and a new footman we had —not knowing who he was—refused him admittance.

"Albert, our major domo who had been with us for years, recognized from the description who it might be and rushed to the rescue just in time.

"I remember so well, we were sitting in the breakfast room and when Mr. Rogers came in instead of being angry and upset at having been kept waiting outside the door and refused admittance, his whole concern was for the footman for fear we might be annoyed with him, all of which is only another incident showing his sympathetic and understanding nature and his great love for his fellow human beings."

Chairman Fred L. Rentz of the local community again calls attention to the fact that contributions to this fund are entirely voluntary, and that no amount is too small to be accepted.

Contributions may be made by filling in the attached coupon and mailing or bringing to The News office or handing to any officer of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis or Junior Chamber of Commerce.

NAVAL NOTES

By M. L. NIXON
Naval Recruiter, Second Floor Federal Building

The United States navy has one of the largest seagoing crane ships ever constructed, official title, Crane Ship Number One. It is mounted on the hull of the old warship Kearsarge and has a lifting power of two hundred and fifty tons and is of the revolving type. The crane is now used to remove the sixteen inch gun assemblies from the modern battleships which weigh about 125 tons each. It is self propelled and in case of necessity can go to sea for salvage work.

The new destroyer Monaghan commissioned April 19, 1935, left Boston on her shakedown cruise on September 23, for Europe. The object of the initial cruise is to train the crew and to determine any defects that a new ship might have prior to accepting it from the builders. The ship will visit ports in England, Scotland, Ireland and Holland, and will arrive back in Boston the latter part of this month.

The British navy has an interesting sword custom. When an officer is tried by court martial and found guilty, his sword is placed on the table with the point toward the accused, while the hilt is placed toward him if he is found not guilty. This is a survival of the custom in old England when the executioner preceded a prisoner on the route from the court to the prison, informing the populance by the direction of the blade of the headsman's axe whether or not the prisoner had received the death sentence.

STOMACH VICTIM FREE OF MISERY OVER 6 MONTHS

Indo-Vin Brought Lasting Relief From Awful Stomach Agony

MR. GRAY

MR. ANDREW GRAY, 174 Barnett St., Washington, Pa., says: "It is wonderful to be free of stomach trouble; in fact, I have been out of misery for over six months, since I took Indo-Vin that long ago, and my trouble has never returned. I kept getting worse with my stomach all the time, and finally got to where I was in CONSTANT pain and misery. My meals simply would not digest AT ALL, but would lay there in my stomach organs and would sour and turn to gas and I'd keep belching up a sour, bitter substance and would get into an awful state of pain and misery. I tried all kinds of medicines, but Indo-Vin was the only medicine I ever found that turned out to be what I needed. My meals are digesting perfectly now and my food never turns sour like it used to. I am 71 years old and I will recommend this medicine if I live to be a hundred." Indo-Vin is now being sold here in New Castle at Eckerd's Drug Store. Also being sold by all leading druggists throughout this whole section.

Warsaw Now Has Washington Ave.

(International News Service)

WARSAW, Nov. 15.—Warsaw has a fine new thoroughfare named Washington street, after America's first president.

The new boulevard is a continuation of a central Warsaw avenue known as the "Aleja Jerozolimska" on the Warsaw side, and "Alejaks. Poniatowskiego" (Prince Pontiatowski avenue) on the Praga side on the right bank of the Vistula.

Washington street is nearly two miles long adjoining the beautiful Paderewski Park, and now is the main avenue of the Praga district of Warsaw where in a few years time Warsaw's world fair will be held.

Hog Football Bet Tangles Iowa Governor

GOVERNOR CLYDE HERRING, LEFT; GOVERNOR FLOYD OLSON, AND HOG

A hog, a football wager and a crusading editor combined to put Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa into a serio-comic legal entanglement. It all began when Governor Herring wagered Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota a hog on the outcome of the Iowa-Minnesota football game. Minnesota won, and the Iowa governor paid off—as pictured above. (Governor Herring is at the left). Virgil Chase, Des Moines editor, then filed gambling charges against Governor Herring, who immediately went into action and secured Governor Olson, an authority on constitutional law, as his attorney. He even added Senator Dan Steck of Iowa as additional counsel. The bog, incidentally, is a brother of Blue Boy, grand champion boar of the Iowa State fair, which was in a movie with the late Will Rogers.

Urges Jews To Contribute In Self Defense

Is Not Merely An Act Of Philanthropy, Rosenwald Asserts

URGES STRONG EFFORT BE MADE

The contribution of money to the United Jewish Appeal is not merely an act of philanthropy but one of self-defense, according to William Rosenwald, younger son of the late Julius Rosenwald, America's foreman of the United Jewish Appeal which is engaged in raising $3,250,000 for the relief and rehabilitation and for the settlement of Jews in Palestine.

This statement was contained in a letter received yesterday by David Victor, chairman of the local division of the United Jewish Appeal, which is trying to raise its quota of the national fund. Urging that a maximum effort be made within the next few days to raise an adequate sum toward the relief and reconstruction funds, Mr. Rosenwald wrote to Mr. Victor:

"In asking for contributions to the United Jewish Appeal, we are asking for something more than a mere grant for charity. I speak as an American who is simultaneously a Jew. There is one outstanding reason why all of us must contribute to this campaign. It is because however good you or I may be as Americans, the fact is inescapable that we are also judged as Jews. This judgment, which is passed upon us, is influenced by the status of Jews in other lands. Jews all over the world—in America and abroad—have this community of interest. The situation of the Jews in Europe has decidedly influenced the unfriendliness of people in the United States.

"In helping our brothers overseas we are, at the same time, protecting our own interests.

"The struggle of our people overseas is a Jewish struggle—a struggle to withstand the many forces that have joined against them. If they succumb, if they are defeated, Jewry is defeated.

"I do not believe that there can be any Jew so callous to his responsibilities and so unappreciative of the plight of the Jewish people as to fail to respond most generously to the United Jewish Appeal which represents the maximum effort of the Jews of America to provide as largely as possible for the extraordinary needs of our brothers in Europe."

Mr. Victor announced that plans have been practically completed to handle an extraordinary gathering to hear Dr. K. Rosenfeld, the guest speaker, at the opening of the local drive, which will be held at the Castleton hotel on Sunday evening, November 17.

The Return From Captivity

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Psalm 126:3—"The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 17, is Jeremiah 29:4-14; Ezra 1:1-11; Psalm 126:1-6. the Golden Text being Ps. 126:3, "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad.")

By DR. ALVAN E. BELL

Whatever the besetting sins of God's ancient people were after the discipline of the 70 years of captivity in Babylon, idolatry was not one of them. God's discipline had accomplished its intended purpose in eradicating this sin which had been Irsael's from the days of the judges.

Three Returns

As the captives had been led away in three distinct groups over a period of 20 years, so their return was accomplished in three groups, led respectively by Zerubbabel Ezra and Nehemiah. The first of these under Zerubbabel returned 70 years after the first group, which included Daniel, had been carried from Jerusalem to Babylon. Not nearly all of those carried away returned. In fact the returning exiles were so comparatively few that they are repeatedly called "a remnant."

Jeremiah Counsels the Captives

Jeremiah gave clear counsel to the captives as to their attitude toward this divine discipline and how to make the best of the situation they had forced God to bring upon them: "For thus saith the Lord, after 70 years be accomplished for Babylon. I will visit you, and perform my good word toward you, in causing you to return to this place. For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the Lord thoughts of peace and not of evil, to give you hope in your latter end.....And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart and I will bring you again unto the place when I caused you to be carried away captive." Meantime they were to be industrious and loyal to their new masters, even praying for the peace of Babylon, "for in the peace thereof shall ye have peace."

God Keeps His Word

When his purpose had been accomplished God made Cyrus king of Persia his servant, even as he has made Nebuchadnezzar, his servant, and Cyrus espoused the cause of returning the captives to Jerusalem and rebuilding the city and temple of Jehovah which had been destroyed. God had promised to do this and he kept his word through his prophets in every "jot and tittle" as our Lord Jesus Christ promises he will do regarding prophecies yet unfufilled: "Now in the first year of Cyrus King of Persia, that the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the Lord stirred up the spirit to Cyrus king of Persia, that he made a proclamation throughout all this kingdom, and put it in writing saying. All the kingdoms of the earth hath the Lord the God of Heaven given me and he hath charged me to build him an house in Jerusalem which is in Judah...Then rose up the heads of the father's houses of Judah and Benjamin and the priests and the Levites, even all whose spirit God had stirred up to go up to build the house of the Lord which is in Jerusalem."

Joy of Returning Exiles

The joy of returning exiles was expressed in such songs of praise as we have in Psalm 126: "The Lord hath done great things for us: whereof we are glad. Turn again our captivity. O Lord, as the streams in the south. They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing bringing his sheaves with him."

Delay Trial Of Bradford Bankers

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15—The case of H. J. Benson and H. L. Miller, officials of the Commercial National bank of Bradford, who are charged with irregularities in connection with the embezzlement of $1,000,0000 of the bank's funds, will not be presented at this term of the federal grand jury, Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh told International News Service today.

While the federal and state authorities engaged in an exhaustive study of the closed bank's accounts, Benson and Miller are free under bond.

Solons Receive Electric Report

Statistics Cover Operations Of Company For Four Months

COMPANY MUST REPORT MONTHLY

Max Bartlett, representative of Burns & McDonnell, today reported to council at their meeting in the city building that he had made a check of the revenues and expense statements of the Pennsylvania Power company for the months of May, June, July and August of 1935. The check was made jointly with accountants of the Public Service commission. Bartlett's letter stated that the check shows an excess earning for that period of $7,054.56.

His report which was read during council session follows:

"The statements submitted by the company are substantially in accordance with their books and records, any differences found being of a minor amount and not materially affecting the final results obtained. The methods of allocation used are in accordance with the stipulation therefore entered in the record of the case.

Tax accruals for four months, $12,240.42.

Net earnings available for depreciated return, $75,670.56.

Required for depreciation and return, one-third of amount stipulated in record for entire year (one-third of $205,848), $68,616.00.

Excess earnings for four months, $7,054.56.

Bartlett's report added that it should be kept in mind that the above months are those with lowest revenues of the entire year, also that maintenance expenses are high since repair work is done during the good weather months. The four months summer period thus represents the worst period for earnings. Despite this fact, however, the company has earned $7,054.56, in excess of a fair return in one-third year, based upon its own statements of revenues and expenses and its stipulated requirements for depreciation and return on investment."

Solicitor White informed council that the commission has instructed the Pennsylvania Power company to make monthly returns until the question is finally settled. White said he would insist this be done. September and October reports remain to be filed.

The report of Bartlett was ordered filed and upon motion of Councilman D. O. Davies, council instructed Solicitor White to continue the investigation in its attempt to secure lower electric rates.

Bishop Hopes For Australian Voyage

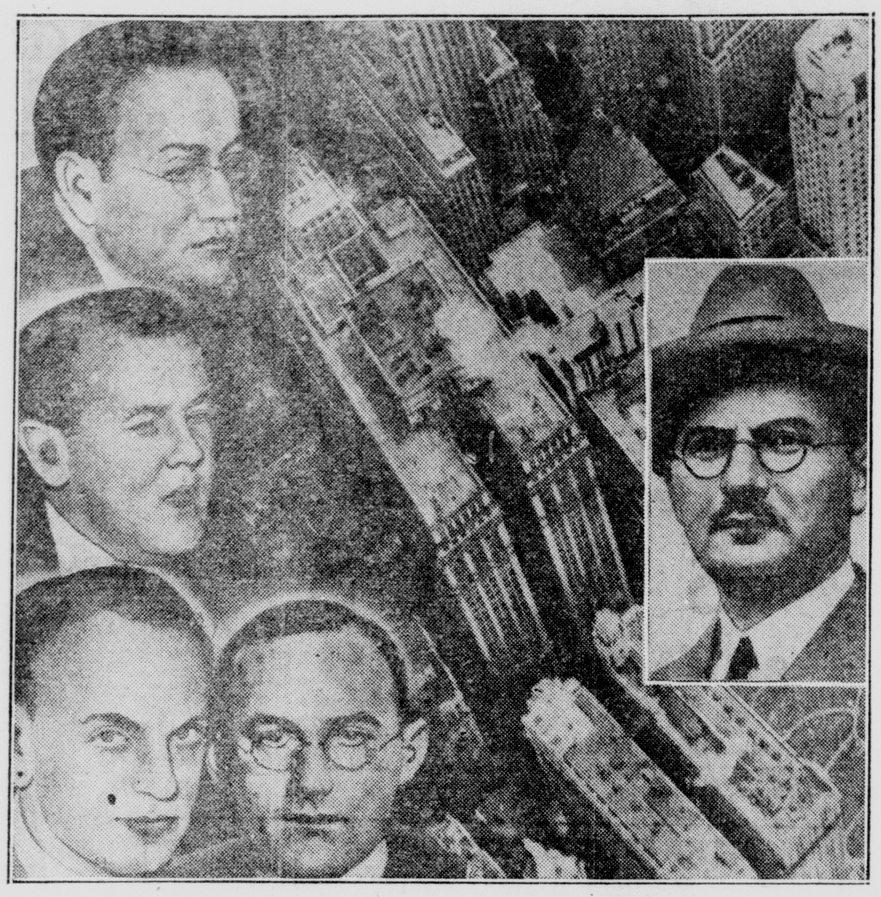
Life seems to be just "one long sail" for Robert Bishop, of near New Wilmington, who today was busy preparing to return over the week-end to his greatest love—an ocean steamer.

Bishop came home a short time ago after serving aboard the U. S. S. Beacon Oil, Standard Oil tanker, on its New York-California trips. He sailed through the Panama Canal ten times.

He hopes when he returns to New York to get instructions to sail aboard an oil tanker for Australia. He does quartermaster work.

We are doing rather well as "dollar chasers". We haven't caught it yet, but we have worn it down to 59 cents.

"Brain Trusters" in Fight for Utilities Act



Wall Street, while celebrating the decision of Federal Judge William C. Coleman (right), of Baltimore, declaring the utilities holding company act unconstitutional, wonders what the four young men shown have up their sleeves in aiding appeal to U. S. Supreme Court. Top to bottom they are Benjamin V. Cohen, Thomas G. Corcoran, James M. Landis, chairman of the SEC., and (center), John J. Burns, counsel. All are under 40 and the first three were members of the original "brain-trust."

Banking Row In Congress Looms

Efforts To Eliminate Postal Banks Will Be Fought

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—A banking row in the next session of congress loomed today as a result of the threat of private bankers to seek repeal of the law under which Uncle Sam has acquired use of $1,215,000,000 though deposits in the postal savings system.

Senator O'Mahoney (D) of Wyoming, former assistant postmaster general, served notice on the bankers that congressional friends of the postal savings system would resist every effort to eliminate the postal banks. He declared deposits in Uncle Sam's mail banks were being used by the government while deposits in private banks largely were being held in cold storage.

Private bankers opened the attack at the recent New Orleans conference. Their demand for repeal of the postal savings law was seconded by Leo T. Crowley, chairman of FDIC.

Serve Notice To Billboard Owners

Owners Must Make Present Billboards Conform To City Ordinance

Owners of billboards here today were given until December 15, to "put their billboards in order"; in other words make them conform to the building ordinance or stricter regulations will be imposed, when council met in city hall.

Under present regulations, billboards can be erected anywhere except in a residential section. They must be placed 15 feet from the property line and must be illuminated in front and behind.

The foregoing decision was reached at the conference between Attorney James Rhodes and council. The latter referred the matter to Solicitor Robert White and Rhodes.

White told Rhodes that if the billboards erected in violation of the law were made to conform with the law before December 15, no new legislation would be written; otherwise, stricter legislation would result.

"Withheld issuance of amateur class B operator's license for a period of six months because he unlawfully operated an unlicensed amateur radio station without a valid operator's license."

Writers Become Soviet's Richest

(International News Service)

MOSCOW—Fifty model villas, now being constructed for Russia's most distinguished writers, will be given them as gifts in order to enable them to "carry" on their creative work under the appropriate conditions."

A 5 per cent tax on all income derived from the production of plays and the publication of books now is collected by the "Literary Fund"—a voluntary writer's guild for such purposes.

It is the writers, playwrights and composers, and not the bankers and industrialists who constitute Russia's aristocracy of wealth.

The men in charge of industry, business and finance have moderate and fixed salaries, but the writers may receive royalties of virtually unlimited amounts. Thus the author of a very successful recent play is said to have earned over a million roubles while thousands continue to roll in as the popularity of the play continues unabated and one movie director expects to earn several million roubles from one of his recent pictures.

Self-Defense Plea Of Woman

Vera Stretz, Blonde Slayer, Forms Defense Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—When Vera Stretz, blonde New York University graduate and part-time school teacher, faces trial for the murder of Dr. Fritz Cebhardt she will plead self-defense and temporary insanity, it was reported today.

Her story, it is understood, will be as follows:

That for a year she thought herself the fiance of the German industrialist, only to learn that he had duped her. That she took a revolver to his apartment late Monday night, intending to commit suicide before his eyes. That when she accused him of infidelity he kicked her in the stomach and ordered her to leave. That, then, her mind unbalanced by his brutality, she drew the gun from her purse and fired four shots into his body, killing him instantly.

Samuel Leibowitz, famous defender of the Scottsboro boys, of Alabama, replaced Arthur M. Moritz as the woman's counsel yesterday and was busy planning her defense today.

Federal Help Brings School Building Boom

Thirty-Eight New Consolidated Schools Approved Education Council

WILL BE BOON TO RURAL PUPILS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 15.—Federal aid has brought about the greatest activity ever experienced in consolidated school building in Pennsylvania. According to Dr. Lester K. Ade, superintendent of public instruction, a total of thirty-eight sites for new consolidated schools were approved by the State Council of Education at its October meeting. In practically all instances, school boards in the districts planning for new buildings are counting upon PWA or WPA assistance.

Better educational opportunities will come to more than nine thousand rural boys and girls now attending approximately 260 one-room one-teacher schools in nineteen counties through these approvals by the State Council, Dr. Ade said. It means that a higher type of instruction, including vocational agriculture and home economics, will become available to farm boys and girls who have never before had these and other desirable educational opportunities.

Since about 1920, an average of 200 one-room schools have been closed each year through consolidations in Pennsylvania, except in the last year or two. The recent record number of approvals, if carried out during the coming year, will reduce the number of such school buildings in Pennsylvania to fewer than 6,000. Many of the projects have been sanctioned in Washington and the school buildings division of the Department of Public Instruction is working on final approval of construction plans.

Thirty-six school districts seek to erect thirty-eight consolidated schools on sites varying in size from two acres, the minimum required by school laws, to thirty-two acres. Many of the schools will be on sites of six to eight acres, considered to be most appropriate for development of recreational facilities. One Allegheny county district, Mifflin township, plans to build two consolidated schools involving the closing of thirty-four one-room buildings. In Lancaster county, Manor township plans to erect three schools replacing thirty of the one-teacher type. In Greene county four districts plan five schools involving the closing of thirty-six one-room schools.

You aren't the one who is generous to the poor if you give them money which rightfully belongs to your family.

STAMP NEWS FROM EVERYWHERE

BY JOHNRAE EARL, SEC. NEW CASTLE STAMP CLUB.

The government of Luxembourg, in collaboration with the international committee to secure employment for refugee professional works, has issued a special series of stamps to sell officially at double their face value. The postage value, of course, goes to the Luxembourg government. The excess value goes to the international committee to help the refugee professionals. The committee is now helping thousands of these men and women in all parts of the world, regardless of their nationality, creed, or political faith. They include doctors, lawyers, teachers, journalists, chemists, engineers, artists. This set of stamps beautifully portrays the professions "in action."

The National Council of Jewish Women have named Mrs. Eliah Kaplan as chairman of the sales for New Castle. Mrs. Kaplan has on hand a complete set of these stamps and she very cordially invites the public to view the set at her home at 223 North Mercer street. The New Castle Stamp club is co-operating with this movement in every way due to the fact that it is a very worthwhile project and deserving of attention.

Complete details of this amazing set of stamps may be secured from either Mrs. Kaplan or myself. We shall both be very glad to answer any questions in regard to these stamps.

AN ISLAND IN REVOLT

It was during the 17th Century, when the stronger European countries were seizing land in all parts of the world, that the French claimed the fertile island of Guadeloupe in the Caribbean Sea. Men were cruel in those days; and the newcomers practically exterminated the original inhabitants of the island, the peaceful Carib Indians, by inhumanly hard labors and punishments.

Slaves from Africa were then imported to work the rich plantations, while the owners took life easy. But in 1789 came that mighty uprising, the French Revolution, which gave oppressed peoples in all corners of the world the idea of freedom. The slaves of Guadeloupe caught it too. Without warning they turned upon their white masters. Drunk with rum, armed with whatever weapons they could find, savage mobs went from plantation to plantation, slaughtering the whites, looting and burning the plantations. The white people who escaped fled in terror, leaving the island for some years to the natives.

When the French reconquered Guadeloupe, the negroes having tasted freedom, fought with desperate courage. Four hundred of them who manned a fort blew themselves into eternity, in preference to being taken alive.

Today Guadeloupe is a peaceful agricultural island, chiefly devoted, as you will see by the sugar cane mill shown on one of its postage stamps, to the production of sugar. The above mat for the illustration was furnished by H. E. Harris Co., Boston.

MISTAKE IN MICHIGAN DESIGN

Those of you who have already received your Michigan stamps and have not already noticed the very vivid error in the design had better go and get your stamps and a dictionary or consult the library.

The official seal of the state of Michigan which was used on this new stamp differs quite a bit from the seal which is now being used by Michigan. The center of the seal shows a man with a staff in hand, standing on a peninsula looking toward the setting sun. In the stamp, however, appears a tent with a flagpole standing by it on the peninsula.

ROCKET AIRPLANE

A new invention designed to carry mail by rocket will make its first mail carrying flight on November 24. All mail rocket flights which have been made heretofore in many countries all over the globe have used a powder charge to shoot the rocket. There was no further progress possible as in these cases the rocket itself had no further propulsion after it had been shot into the air. W. Ley, who is today the foremost scientist in rocket construction, has built a rocket airplane which will generate its own constant propulsion while in flight. No powder charge will be used but among other chemical substances he will use liquid oxygen which has a temperature of minus 200 degrees zero centigrade.

The rocket will be equipped with wings so that it can make a gliding landing, eliminating the parachute which had to be used on other powder rockets.

The flight will demonstrate the absolute feasability of transporting mail on rocket airplanes at a speed of better than 500 miles per hour and at a cost of only a fraction of what regular airmail would cost. Great distances can be covered within a few minutes and at a very low cost.

A limited amount of mail can be carried and anybody wishing to obtain one of these cherished first rocket airplane covers should get in touch with F. W. Kessler of 485 Ocean avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beer drinking in Manchuria has jumped 20 per cent in the last year.

Nina Sent Bill and His Love Spinning... Right Into a Cocked Hat... Beg Pardon! a Parked Car...

"I ran out of gas," she said. "I waited and waited but no one would stop. So I rolled the car — it was on the hill —until I got it where nobody could pass."

WILLIAM had not been able to eat any supper!

Mr. Westlock having just finished the last of a particularly luscious dessert, leaned back in the chair with the heavy sigh of a happily replete man. "Hmf!" he grunted, reaching into a vest pocket for a cigar. "That was good."

Mrs. George W. Westlock, plump of figure and grey of hair, glanced across the table at her husband. But her attention was completely given to the tag-ends of conversation which drifted into them from the hall where their son, William, home from his first year of college, was shouting urgently into the receiver:

"Hello . . . hello. . . hello! Oh! That you, Nina? Where the heck you been? What are you doing toni—" There was a silence. Then, "Oh?" he breathed despairingly. "Oh? . . . The theatre? With Don Carrick? Oh! Oh, I see—"

Mr. and Mrs. Westlock smiled at each other with the amused and wearily sophisticated look which mature persons show toward the vagaries of the younger generation.

Again William's voice came to them, sharp and clear with a sudden decision. "Look, Nina, I must see you—tonight. Just for a few minutes." There was desperation in his voice. "Never mind what I want . . . Only a minute or two . . . Yes, after seven. . ."

There was a violent click as the young man jammed the receiver on the hook. He stalked along the passageway, pausing in the door of the dining-room.

"You haven't had your dessert, dear," said Mrs. Westlock.

William shook his head. "I don't want any, Mother."

Mr. Westlock took his cigar from between his lips. "Your girl giving you the go-by, son?" he asked, grinning broadly.

Bill stared at his father. Red tinged his cheeks. He faltered as if about to speak, but turned instead, vanishing toward the stairs.

The mother glanced somewhat reproachfully at her husband. "You shouldn't tease Bill like that, George," she said.

George Westlock grinned. "Huh! A little teasin'll do him good." He snorted. "These calf-affairs!"

Mrs. Westlock smiled gently.

Young Bill Westlock slammed the door of his bedroom behind him. He dropped upon the white counterpane of the narrow bed, and gripped his fingers. "They don't realize!" he muttered through set lips. "They don't know what it means to be in love!"

In a moment he rose, still with set face and tight mouth, and advanced to the dresser. He unlocked and pulled open one of the small drawers at the top. Inside the drawer was a miscellany of objects. Among them was a gaudy box that had once held stationery; the distended sides now held together by two massive rubber bands. Inside the box was a school exercise book, with the words, My Diary, Private and Personal, printed in ornamental letters across the front of it.

There was also the photograph of a girl. The girl was in a white knitted sports suit. A net bound the dark hair closely to the head, emphasizing the sharpness of the elfish profile, the gamin quality of the alert, bright-eyed face.

A SOFT silence filled the room as the boy stared with hurt, strange eyes at the picture. Into this silence at length came another sound: the slow, methodical ticking of an alarm clock upon the dresser. As the silence seemed to deepen the ticking became more audible until the sound penetrated the aloofness that surrounded the boy. He glanced at the clock, and leaped to his feet.

Mr. and Mrs. George Westlock smiled at each other as they heard the hurried scampering of his feet. The front door slammed. A car engine roared in ascending volume. Gears shricked.

"That boy drives that car too recklessly!" groused Mr. Westlock. "He'll have an accident some day!"

Bill stopped the car before a white frame house. His manner was strangely mature, grave, as he ascended the cement steps and rang the bell.

A small boy opened the door, and stood staring, his red fat cheeks bulging with food.

"'Lo, Bill," he mumbled finally. He held the door wide open. Bill advanced into the hall.

"Nina down in a minute," came half-audible words from the boy. With that he vanished, presumably to some source of food supply.

With an easiness bred of long familiarity with the house and its inmates, Bill made his way into the sitting-room.

He did not have long to wait. In a few minutes a young girl—the girl of the photograph—entered on clicking, high-heeled shoes.

"'Lo Bill," said Nina, glancing airily at the despondent figure on the window seat.

Bill, suddenly awkward, rose to his feet. "'Lo Nina," he said.

She crossed the room toward him. She was dressed for evening; her shoulders were bare and white and soft.

"What did you want to see me about, Billy?" She sat down.

McClure Fiction

He dropped beside her. "You know," he muttered, his eyes miserable.

She placed one hand over his clenched paw. She was sorry for him. She could not tell him that her interest must of necessity lie with men of thirty or thirty-five, men established in life, with positions, men who could afford marriage, cars, country estates. . . She could not tell him this—but she could be sorry.

"Aw, Bill," she muttered.

His hot fingers held her hand closely.

"I love you, Nina," he said, his honest, miserable eyes on hers.

She looked away. "I'm sorry, Bill."

"Nina!" He was pleading.

But her answer was the same: "I'm sorry."

His voice was low, desperate, "Nina!" as he reached for her.

For a moment they stared at each other, each hot of face, angry-eyed.

HE forced his lips into a grimace, a smile that was meant to hurt. "Go with your Don Carrick, then—with his bald head and his fat stomach! See if I care!"

"Bill!" Her voice was half-angry, half-reproachful.

"Sure! Go out with him every evening! Golf with him every afternoon! Go on! Marry him! Go on! See if I care!"

The girl moved toward him. She tried to seize one of his hands, but he waved her away.

"See if I care!" He turned and stalked to the door. "Go with your Don Carrick—you'll never have the chance again with me!"

The girl stood motionless in the middle of the room. Then she crossed to the window. For a moment she leaned there, staring unseeingly at the spot where the car had disappeared. Then, with a little start, she straightened her body. When she left the room she paused for a long moment before the hall mirror, to powder her cheeks and draw a crimson curve upon her lips.

The Westlock house was deserted when Bill emerged from the car. He passed along the silent hall and up the echoing stairs to his own room. A mellow sunset was failing over the city's roofs. A quietness, the sadness of late evening, held the world.

He wished, somehow, now, that he had not been so hasty. That moment when she had come toward him, with her hands held out. . . But, no, it was better as it was. It had been a magnificent scene. He was resolved. He would never see her again. And she—she would be getting into Don Carrick's great red roadster just about now. Don Carrick was vice-president of a great city bank; he had money, a magnificent salary. Life was unfair, somehow, he thought. They would be entering the theatre now. The theatre! He had not enough money for a movie, even.

Suddenly he felt very alone, very cut off. He had lost Nina. The coming years would hold nothing for him, he knew. And people would look at him, and say, "Yes, a great sorrow must. . ." Life would be dust and greyness to him. It would not be worth the living—

He raised his head. From the silent air around him had come a thought, the grandeur, the awfulness of which held him in a spell. Suppose—

HE saw scenes. He saw his mother weeping. He saw his father with his grin gone, with lines of sorrow on his haggard face. He saw Nina, broken, sick of heart, weeping, weeping for him. . .

An hour passed.

At last he rose, stiff and weary from his cramped position, and crossed to the dresser. He opened the top drawer, and stared within.

There was the box on top, with the lid ajar and one side gaping. He drew it reverently forth. The photograph slid to the floor. He picked it up. Then, slowly, he bent his head to kiss it.

His diary. He had started it five years before. What a kid he had been, then! He had often forgotten to write in it, but still there were a good many pages filled. His mother, he thought, would like to have this.

He groped with one hand in the back of the drawer and found the writing pad, a pen. With these he crossed to his writing table. He wrote. Just a few lines, he thought. But when he finished the last line was only an inch from the bottom. He folded the sheet carefully. When he rose the white square of paper gleamed in the exact center of the table.

Before he left the room he picked up the photograph again, and stared long at it, and bent his lips to kiss it.

He drove his car in the direction of the river, three miles away.

MR. and Mrs. George Westlock returned from the bridge party a few minutes after one. They tip-toed upstairs. Mrs. Westlock paused for a moment before the closed door of William's room. "Yoo-hoo—Willie!" she called softly. There was no answer.

"The young scamp isn't in yet!" muttered Mr. Westlock. "This is the third time this week—"

"Oh, George, we're only young once," said Mrs. Westlock, rather wearily.

"Young! Hmf! Now, when I was his age—"

"Yes, yes," interposed Mrs. Westlock in her patient voice. "Come on, George, I'm dead tired."

Her husband stretched. "So'm I," he yawned.

Mrs. Westlock did not immediately fall asleep. She liked to stay awake until William was safely home. It was silly, she knew, but still— After an hour or so, however, she dropped into a fitful slumber. She awoke with a start. How long had she been asleep? she wondered. She strained her eyes at the luminous dial of the clock upon the dressing table. Its was a quarter to three. She wondered if William had come home. The noise of the car, surely, would have wakened her. . . Mrs. Westlock knew that she would not be able to get to sleep until she was sure of her son's return. She started to slip from the bed.

Mr. Westlock rolled uneasily. "W'a's a' matter?" he mumbled.

"Nothing," she whispered. "I'm just going to peep into Bill's room to see—"

"Gol a'mighty! Isn't that boy home yet?" His head burrowed into the pillow. His tired eyes closed.

Suddenly he half rose from the bed. Someone had flashed on the light. "What—" he began, blinking his eyes. Then he saw his wife. She was standing like a pillar of white in the doorway. A slip of paper fluttered in her hand. Her eyes, in the queer, white face, were gigantic, black.

Mr. Westlock flung back the covers, and leaped to the floor.

"Martha!" he cried, "Martha, what is it? What is it, Martha?"

"George! Oh, George!" Mrs. Westlock swayed toward him.

BILL let the car run easily along the paved highway. The river was three miles away, and —well, there was no hurry.

The houses slipped by on both sides. These at length gave way to rolling, grassy hills. He turned from the cement road, rolling gently down a dirt trail. The car purred slowly up a short hill. On the brow of the hill the road dipped to the right. Suddenly the long white beams of the twin headlights focused on some large object on the trail. Bill jammed on the brakes.

It was a car, he saw, parked in the very centre of the narrow road. It seemed to be deserted.

He leaned over the side door. "Heh!" he called. "Heh, there!"

A head showed from within the interior of the parked car. The head was followed by a body in a long trailing cloak. The person came toward Bill.

"Say," said Bill, raw sarcasm in his voice, "say, what d' ya think—"

He stopped. It was a girl.

There was a long silence. They stared at each other. There was not much of the girl to be seen. The trailing cloak covered her small person.

Bill spoke first. "What happened?" he asked.

Even her voice was small, he discovered, when she spoke. "I ran out of gas," she said. "I waited and waited but no one would stop. So I rolled the car—it was on the hill—until I got it where nobody could pass."

"Oh," said Bill. And again, "Oh."

She waited for him to do something.

Bill cleared his throat. "Will you come with me to get gas, or will you wait here until I come back?"

She considered him. "I think I'll go with you," she told him in her small, soft voice.

"Well, we'll have to get your bus outa the road." Bill slipped from behind the wheel. He released the emergency brake on the other car, and rolled the machine to one side.

The girl was seated in his own car when he returned.

"We can't turn around on this road," he said. "Too narrow. We'll have to keep on for a half-mile, and around."

She said nothing.

Bill got into the car beside her. He started the engine again. From the corner of his eye he saw that her hair was light, and full of glints of gold even in the darkness, and curly.

"Cool here, isn't it?" he said.

"Yes," she returned.

They swung at the first corner, proceeding along the river-road.

"Pretty, along here, isn't it?" Bill said.

"Yes," she replied.

The night was dark and warm. There rose the magic smell of near waters.

"We can get gas at the next station—it's just around the bend," said Bill.

"I'm sorry," she amazingly said. Her voice was soft and wistful. Bill risked one glance at her.

They drew up before the gaudily lighted filling station. Bill ordered a can of gasoline. While the man was getting it, they sat silently in the car.

Bill leaned suddenly toward her. "Say," he said, "say, they have ice cream, and drinks, and lunches, back there." He pointed to a gaily-lighted open-air lunch room, next to the filling station.

The girl said nothing.

"We—we could have some, if you wished," Bill faltered.

There was a little silence. The girl looked into Bill's face. Then, after a moment, her soft voice said, "I think that would be very nice."

She held out a hand. Bill took it. "That's great," he said, "great, just great!"

MR. WESTLOCK was haggard. "Mother, I've done everything." He turned to the woman who sat with ashen face watching him.

His voice broke. "I've phoned the city police and the state troopers. I've called everywhere I can think of." He dropped on the floor beside the sofa, and caught her two hands in his. "The only person who seems to have seen him is Nina Peters. He left her place a little after seven. Nina said Bill was strange, and said good-bye in a funny way." He pressed the woman's hand. "Mother, they're doing everything they can." He gazed up into her expressionless face. "Mother," he pleaded.

Suddenly he stiffened. From the street there had come the low song of a warm engine running easily. He listened. The roar grew, slackened, died. Mr. Westlock's hand gripped his wife's fingers. They heard the slam of a car door, a boy's gay whistle. Mrs. Westlock was a frozen statue. "Mother!" whispered Mr. Westlock, "Mother!"

Swift footsteps sounded on the front steps. Bill came into the room.

"Bill," cried Mrs. Westlock, her voice breaking on the syllable. "Bill!" She rose, and ran to him, with her hands held out to catch him as if she doubted his flesh and blood.

AN hour passed before the stillness of night took possession of the house again. It had been an hour of frantic explanations, hurried lies, an hour of tears and comfortings and strange painful happiness. In all the house only one window showed a light. That was in Bill's room.

He had had to lie. His racing mind had grasped at any explanation but the true one. He had said something about a college play, that the words he had written on the sheet of paper were those that he had had to read in the play.

Now he sat in his room, before his writing table, a rapt expression upon his face.

Jane dear, he was writing,—

Jane dear, I think it's just the worst luck in the world that you should happen to live in Clystdale. Seven miles! But I think I can run over pretty often. Dad lets me have the motor all the time.

Janey, wasn't it the strangest way we met? And the wonderful evening we had together! And then, that one dance we had. Only one. Janey, you dance like thistledown!

I'm going to post this first thing in the morning. I think perhaps I can get over tomorrow night.

Good night, Janey. I never felt about any girl as I feel about you—

He folded the sheet of paper and sealed it in an envelope. He rose to place it in the top drawer of the dresser. As he drew the drawer open, his hand brushed the top of the dresser and knocked a photograph to the floor. He saw it spin down, but he made no effort to pick it up. For it was his eyes only which saw it—his conscious mind was far away.

As he turned from the dresser, sighing, one of his shoes descended upon, and crushed, the brittle fabric of the picture.

Dr. Crile To Go To Africa

African Hunting Expedition Will Help Medical Science

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 15.—The first leg in an African hunting expedition in the interest of medical science was started Thursday by Dr. George W. Crile, eminent surgeon and head of the Cleveland Clinic, under the auspices of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation and the Cleveland Museum of Natural History.

Dr. and Mrs. Crile will leave here for New York. They will sail Saturday on the liner Ile De France, going directly to Paris. From there they plan to fly by airplane across the Mediterranean Sea and down the Nile river to Mombasa, British East Africa.

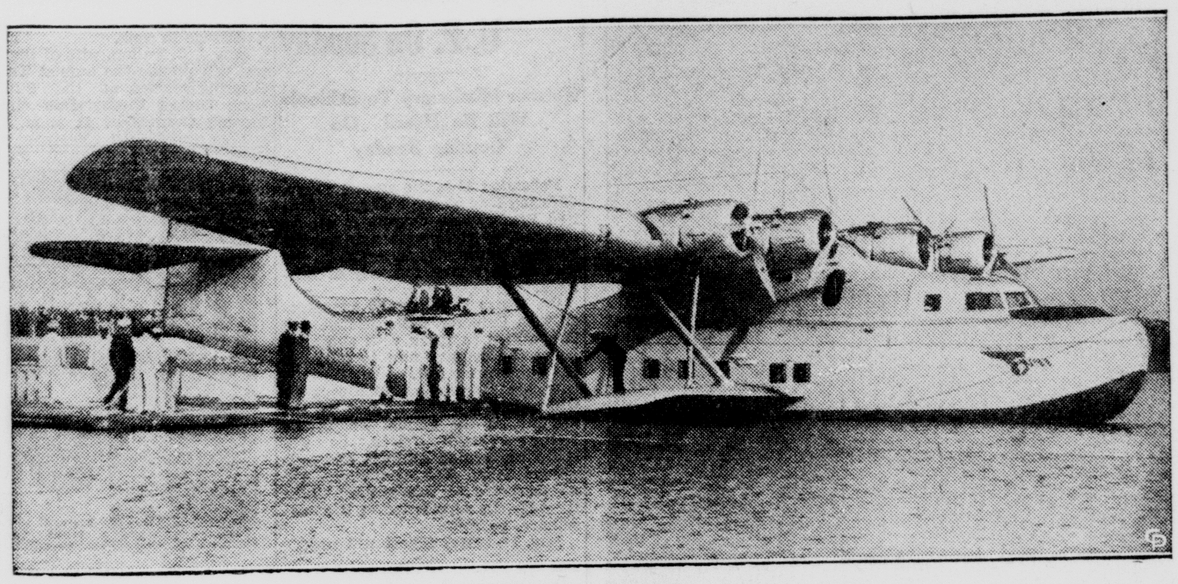
Will Join Fuller

At Mombasa, they will join Arthur B. Fuller, representing the museum, and Dr. Daniel P. Quiring, of Western Reserve University, who sailed last month. They expect to return to Cleveland in January.

The purpose of the expedition, according to sponsors, is to make further investigations of the brain-thyroid-adrenal-sympathetic complex of wild animals, and is expected to disclose facts leading to a further understanding of the energy mechanism of civilized man by comparing it with the same mechanism in various animals.

The party will establish a base camp at Lake Manyara on the edge of the greatest game fields in Africa. From the base camp the party will travel by airplane 800 miles toward Central Africa, to the great forests of Uganda, to obtain species of the chimpanzee for experimental purposes.

CHINA CLIPPER "DOCKS"; READY FOR INAUGURAL FLIGHT TO ORIENT



"DOCKING" AT ALAMEDA

America's new commercial queen, the China Clipper, is pictured above as it arrived at its San Francisco bay base at Alameda, Cal., preparatory for its inaugural transpacific flight to China. Civic and state officials gathered at Alameda to extend a civic welcome to the ship which now is the largest flying boat in America. Regular passenger service between the U. S. and Orient soon will be started.

Old In Years But Young In Spirit

(International News Service)

BEDFORD, Pa., Nov. 15.—Bedford county's "old guard" army of hunters is ready to match ages with any group of nimrods in the nation.

Fifteen hunting licenses were issued in the county to men more than 75 years of age. Their combined ages total 1,189 years, for an average of more than 79 years per hunter.

Heading the list of "dean hunters" is Silas Plummer, 88, of Beaverdale. Plummer is a Civil War veteran who has been an ardent follower of the sport for many years and is still active.

B. B. Myers, Mann's Choice, 84, is another of the veterans. Among the others are Joseph Wilson, Bedford, 80; D. M. Drake, Everett, 82; Fred Stambaugh, Osterburg, 80. Five of the veterans are 79, while one is 78; two are 76 and two 75.

Roosevelt Proclaims Islands Independence

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The independence of the Philippines was officially proclaimed by President Roosevelt on Thursday.

He signed and issued a proclamation terminating the existing government of the islands and establishing the commonwealth of the Philippines under a constitutional form of government.

Simultaneously, the White House made public a cablegram Mr. Roosevelt sent to Manuel Quezon, the first president of the new Filipino commonwealth:

"I send my heartiest congratulations upon your inauguration as the first president of the commonwealth of the Philippines and my best wishes for the success of your administration."

Secretary of War Dern represented the president at the inaugural in Manila yesterday. President Roosevelt also sent a message to Frank Murphy, retiring governor-general of the islands, who becomes high commissioner with the inauguration of Quezon.

GIRL RESERVES MEETING

At 5 o'clock Monday evening the Senior Girl Reserves cabinet had a supper meeting to discuss club problems and to plan a general program for the remainder of the semester. Specific plans were made for raising funds for sending representatives to the sectional conference for Girl Reserves that will be held next summer. Definite plans were also made for the Thanksgiving program, and an invitation will be extended to the entire student body to bring donations for the baskets to be prepared for the needy.

GIRL RESERVES MEET

Appropriately commemorating Armistice Day, a very interesting program was enjoyed by the Girl Reserves on Monday evening, November 11. A few moments of silent prayer followed the devotionals, which were led by Emma Colaluca. There was a short business meeting in which an amendment to the section of the Constitution, concerning the attendance of the members was passed. A reading was then given by Leah Davis. President, Peggy England introduced Mrs. William Cosel, who gave a very interesting talk on peace. Songs were sung with Phyllis Elder leading and Jean Short at the piano. The meeting was brought to a close by the signing of a hymn.

RECIEVES FINE LETTER

Principal F. L. Orth received a letter from Principal Conn of the Martins Ferry high school. Mr. Conn expressed his deep appreciation for the way in which his team and student body were treated when they were in New Castle last Saturday.

They were very much pleased with the action of the fans, and stated that they would be looking forward to future games with New Castle.

COLLECT LIBRARY DUES

On Wednesday morning the library squad was busily engaged collecting debts owed to the library for books kept over time. They went to all of the rooms and notified each individual of the fact that he owed money. Collections were made where possible.

NEW BULLETIN AWAITED

Another bulletin, entitled "Highway Hazards, Their Cause and Cure" will be distributed to the pupils soon. These compositions are written with the idea of lowering or eliminating the number of accidents on our highways. It is calculated that a great percentage of all the accidents that occur are caused by high school students. It is therefore the chief aim to endeavor to teach right from wrong when driving along the highways in automobiles.

This bulletin in addition contains several projects which will be worked out by different classes. English classes especially have been requested to give these problems attention.

LECTURER WILL BE HEARD

On Monday, November 25, Winfield Markham is coming to the school with an illustrated lecture on his travels about the United States. The pictures which will be used were taken from an airplane which traveled from New York to Chicago, Salt Lake City to San Francisco then south to San Diego, from their north to Portland, Seattle, and up to Vancouver. All in all it is a 175 mile trip by auto and should prove exceedingly interesting.

One of the features of these pictures is the fact that they bring out the beauty of our own country and mainly that of our national parks.

STUDENTS SEE FILMS

N. R. Casillo and H. A. Butler's classes viewed three reels of moving pictures on Wednesday morning of this week.

Two of the reels were dealing chiefly with the home of the Buffalo and was centered in Canada. The other reel was concerning the life of the Beaver. These films were enjoyed by about seventy-five students who are members of the above classes.

These reels were taken on the Buffalo reservation in Canada which is a tract of land consisting of 125,000 acres set aside for Buffalos alone. There are at the present time about 6000 of the animals at this reservation and the pictures dealt with the life of the animals that are taken care of by the Canadian government.

Leaders Look To Coming Year

Republicans Are Confident They Will Win Election In 1936

DEMS REFUSE TO ADMIT LOSSES

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Ask a functionary of the Republican high command what he expects the G. O. P. to accomplish at the 1936 election and he will answer, for publication, that he expects it to put a Republican into the White House and to win a majority in the house of representatives. He cannot predict Republican control of the senate; if the G. O. P. should win every senate seat that will be at stake next year (which is unimaginable), it still would be four votes short of a majority.

Your Republican informant, however, will claim (for publication) everything that is even theoretically possible.

* * *

F. D. R. AHEAD NOW

He'll say, if the election were to be held tomorrow:

1. That President Roosevelt would win, though by a much narrower margin than in 1932.

2. That the G. O. P. would be lucky to win three or four senate seats.

3. That it should gain 75 in the house of representatives, which would leave it still nearly three-score shy of a majority.

As to what another year will bring forth one man's guess is almost as good as another's.

DEMOCRATIC VIEW

Ask a Democrat expert for his forecast and, for publication, he will not admit the possibility of any losses whatever—but he will confidentially.

He will concede that President Roosevelt will not win an overwhelmingly as in 1932, that the opposition may capture a senate seat or two and that the Democrats are likely to lose 25 or 30 in the lower congressional chamber—not a sufficient number to perturb them, except that it will damage their prestige somewhat.

The shift, if any, in the house of representatives will be particularly significant.

In 1932 and 1934 several of them, Democrats, were chosen by normally Republican states, but they do not come up for re-election next year. Their peril at the polls is postponed until 1938 or 1940.

If Roosevelt-ism has slipped at all, they haven't many votes that they can afford to lose. If they lose just a few, they're beaten.

* * *

MAY BE STRENGTHENED

Assume that President Roosevelt wins next year, but with reduced majorities on Capitol Hill.

HOUSE IS CRUX

Judging from today, then, the house of representatives is the crux of the situation.

Representative Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, as chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, is generalissimo of the G. O. P. forces; Representative Patrick H. Drewry of Virginia, as chairman of the corresponding Democratic committee, directs Roosevelt-an strategy.

Dr. Work Presents Volume To Library

The Free Public Library was particularly pleased today on being presented with an autographed copy of Dr. Ernest Work's (the noted Italo-Ethiopian authority) new book "Ethiopia—A Pawn in Europeon Diplomacy." Dr. Work, professor of history at Muskingum college, spent more than five years in the writing of this book. It is based upon facts as well as theory.

Dr. Work gathered all of his own material during the world war when he served in the Italian army, and continued his work when called to Ethiopia by Haile Selassie to become the John Hancock of the black nation! While there he wrote their present constitution and setup the present educational system.

HAYES RECEIVED OVER $1,200,000

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Patrick Cardinal Hayes received more than $1,200,000 under the will of John Whalen, attorney, who died nine years ago, it was revealed here today through the filing of a transfer tax appraisal.

Price Jumps On Relief Cattle

Farmers Ask To Pay Double The Price They Sold Cattle To Government

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—An avalanche of protest has descended on Washington officials because relief agencies in the northwest are trying to sell drought-relief cows, which cost $20 back to farmers for $49 to $55.

The center of the disturbance is in North Dakota. All Senators and congressmen from that state have taken up cudgels for the farmers in an effort to unravel red tape.

When the west was dust-ridden last year, bony cows were bought for $20 by the AAA. They were turned over to the federal surplus relief corporation and in turn to a rural rehabilitation corporation.

The cows were "farmed" out to families on relief. Feed was provided for the cows.

Now that there is plenty of feed in the northwest many farmers want to buy the cows back. But they find that cows sold for $20 are priced at from $49 to $55, based on appraisals.

MISUNDERSTOOD

The country minister was giving the milkmaid a lift home in his car, and when he came to her house he set her down. The girl proceeded to thank him. "Oh, don't mention it," said the minister.

The girl blushed, and then replied, "All right, mum's the word."

Four Murders of a Kind

Mysterious slaying of Corinna Loring (top), Mt. Ranier, Md., bride-to-be, is being compared by Washington police to three unsolved murders of women in recent years—those of (below, l.-r.) Mrs. Virginia McPherson, Beulah Limerick and Mary Baker. All died under similar circumstances within a few miles of the U. S. Capitol.

Russia Rises Out Of Famine, But $6 Is Year's Farm Pay

Official Figures Show How Food Producers Fare Worst Under Soviet Economics

By LINDESAY PARROTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, Nov. 15.—Six dollars a year—the equivalent in buying power of 200 paper roubles—is the annual expenditure of the Russian farmer under the collective system, it is revealed in official figures published here.

The low subsistence level of the Russian peasant is revealed by the additional statement that 200 roubles represents an increase of 30 roubles—roughly $1, a person at a pragmatical scale—over previously announced figures. The total expenditures of peasants in the USSR—approximately 80% of the population, are estimated at 5,000,000,000 roubles, or approximately $170,000,000.

The statistics published here under the somewhat optimistic heading, "Collective farmers tread the road to prosperity," give an interesting picture of peasant economics in the year 1935.

In grain supplies, for instance, there has been a slow rise from the famine level of 1932. Data from seven provinces shows grain supplies in 1934 were 8'.5% above those of 1933—an important fact, since bread still constitutes the staple diet of the Russian peasant.

It is indicated, however, that the government has succeeded in its campaign, through concession to private ownership, remission of taxes and other means, to replace the live stock slaughtered during the early drive for collectivization.

Dairy supplies in the hands of the peasants increased by 20.7% between 1933 and 1934 and meat and fat sales by collectives increased 26.8%.

Statistics approach to the spread of education in the Russian village also yields some interesting information. Roughly three times more children are in village schools in 1935 than there were in 1914-15. In higher schools, the attendance has mutiplied by four. The figures today are 19,200,000 and 4,400,00 as against 6,500,000 aand 485,000.

Nevertheless, the Soviet government has little more than doubled the amount spent on ruarl schools under the Tsarist regime.

The Soviet, it is stated spent 23 paper roubles for educational and medical services in 1933. The prerevolutionary district councils spent roughly 50 gold kopecks and the parochial schools 10 kopecks a person annually, or approximately 30 cents as against the Soviet's 66 or 67 cents.

The figures reveal again the vast cleavage that still exists between the city and the village and between the agricultural worker and the skilled mechanic so much prized under the new regime.

Recently issued statistics stated that the average monthly income of the skilled factory workman, tractor driver or the like was 161 roubles a month as compared with the peasant expenditure of 200 roubles a year—plus, of course, the payment in kind the peasant receives from his collective.

"Rough" Riding Is Brain Stimulant

Pittsburgh Inventor Gets Idea For Pneumatic Auto Spring From Cobblestones

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Like James Watt, who conceived of a great invention by watching a tea kettle pant forth powerful energy, Hermann Schutte came upon an idea while riding over a rough cobblestone street on a motorcycle, which may revolutionize automobile construction.

The idea is a pneumatic automobile spring which the Pittsburgh inventor claims is superior to the present steel spring.

Calling his invention the "dynamostat," Schutte, who came to this country in 1903 from Hanover, Germany, explained:

"The dynamostat" consists of four rubber, air-filled units placed in the same position as the present system of springs. Each unit is inter-connected by tubing allowing the air to flow from one to the other when the wheel strikes a projection, which conteracts rocking motion and yet doesn't stop each wheel from separately assimilating the shock."

Schutte is a graduate of the German engineering college of Mittweida-Sachsen. He indicated he will introduce his invention in Germany with the aid of Matthew T. Mellon, son of William Larimer Mellon, prominent banker. Mellon is a professor at the University of Freiberg.

Germans Trekking Back Into Their Former Colonies

(International News Service)

MOSHI, Tanganyika, Nov. 15.—"Peaceful penetration" back into what was previously a part of German East Africa is being continued steadily by German settlers in the Northern Province of Tanganyika.

They are, in spite of difficulties such as the restrictions on the export of capital from Germany, steadily buying up British-owned farms and are, incidentally, doing great harm to British trade interests in the territory.

This is due to the methods employed by those Germans who have no funds outside their native country to obtain the necessary currency for purchasing land.

The result is disturbing. In certain districts where British farms were once in the majority, German owners are now predominant.

Dr. G. A. Sowash Will Be Speaker At Shenango U. P.

Members of the Shenango U. P. church will have a game and tureen dinner in the church dining room this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Following the dinner Dr. G. A. Sowash, of New Wilmington, a returned missionary to Ethiopia, will give a talk on the Ethiopian situation.

Hospitals "Worked" By A New "Racket"

(International News Service)

CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 15.—A free bed and board "racket" victimizing hospitals was uncovered here with the arrest of Frederick Schwab, 23, of Fort Lee, N. J., police charged.

Schwab was discharged from Chester hospital after physicians were unable to find anything wrong with him. He had been admitted as a victim of a hit-run motorist. The man returned to the hospital the following night, however, with a similar story, according to hospital officials. Investigation a second time failed to disclose injuries and the man was arrested.

Half Million To Inspect Schools

American Education Week In Full Swing — Legion Posts Are Joining

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 15.—More than half a million persons are expected to visit Pennsylvania's public schools during observance of American educational week which opens Armistice Day.

Superintendent of public instruction Lester K. Ade announced that all public schools in the state will open their doors to the public during the week. Daily programs are scheduled in many communities around the general theme, "the School and Democracy."

Many American Legion posts are planning to join in the celebration, according to information here. Most of the Legion posts have programs involving the schools scheduled for Armistice Day. On Wednesday evening, National Legion Commander Ray Murphy of Iowa will participate in a coast-to-coast education week program which will be started by a beam of light from the torch of the Statue of Liberty.

During the week, all metered mail leaving the department of public instruction will bear the stamp "visit your schools—American Educational Week, November 11-17, 1935."

She'll Sponsor New U. S. Warship

(International News Service)

RALEIGHT, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Miss Mary Blythe Winslow, great-granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral John Ancrum Winslow, has been designated sponsor of the U.S.S. Winslow a new destroyer named in his honor, when it goes down the ways at the plant of the New York Shipbuilding Corp., at Camden, N. J., late this year.

Admiral Winslow won fame as a young captain in command of the U.S.S. Kearsarge when it sank the Alabama after a bitter naval battle off the coast of Cherbourg, France, during the Civil War.

COUNTS 2,600 SHEEP AND STAYS AWAKE

(International News Service)

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 15.—A veteran auctioneer, Harry C. Kearney, counted sheep—2,600 of them—at the National Stock Yards here, but he didn't go to sleep on the job. Three hundred Illinois and Missouri farmers intent on getting into the sheep industry kept him wide awake as they bid in lots of the sturdy breeding ewes from Wyoming.

It was the fourth such auction in as many years and found prices higher because of losses and government buying in the drouth sections last year. The prices ranged from $5.50 to $8 a head. In order to promote the industry in this area, commission men did not ask the usual buying commission.

New Oil Field Is Productive

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Nov. 15—New, highly productive oil field, where a "strike" was made a very short time ago, was being rapidly developed at nearby Amwell Township Thursday with prospects of becoming competition for the Northwestern Pennsylvania oil centers.

Following by less than a week completion of an estimated 30-barrel-a-day well on property owned by William Dodds, another well was sunk on a farm of A. O. Vankirk, which is believed will produce 40 barrels a day.

Two other wells in the section are expected to come in at any moment while work is progressing on another pair within the same high area.

Red Tape Holds Up McNair's Winter Tent

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Mayor William N. McNair has decided that the city's unemployables will not freeze this winter—that is, not too much.

The mayor has sent a requisition for the purchase of a 40x100 foot tent where he intends to put the unemployed "up for the winter."

However, his plan hit a snag, and the "big-top," which he indicated will have more than a three-ring circus, will not be bought, if ever, until he specifies whether he wants it round or oblong, white or brown, or whether it will just be a "tent."

If and when the supplies department gets instructions it "may" advertise for bids, and then again it may just buy a pup-tent for the mayor.

Reich Farmers Smuggling Eggs

(International News Service)

AACHEN, Germany, Nov. 15.—A flourishing smuggling trade by German chicken farmers, who had their hens eat on Dutch soil and lay eggs on German territory to dodge the high German import taxes, ended when nine farmers were sentenced to prison for five month terms.

The defendants had bought soil on both sides of the Rothenbach creek, which forms part of the German-Dutch border. They fed their chickens on the Dutch side and drove them over to Germany for the night to lay their eggs. Guardians of the law couldn't interfere until it was observed, however, that Dutch trucks rolled up to the chicken farms on the Dutch side and unloaded eggs in enormous quantities.

After carefully noting the number of truckloads sold by the individual chicken farms, in Germany and the number of hens, they arrested all farmers.

CHAMPION CORN HUSKER CROWNED

(International News Service)

FINDLAY, O., Nov. 15.—John F. Feehan of McComb won the Hancock county standing corn contest here when he husked a total of 1,696 pounds. His net weight was 1,492 pounds or 21.3 bushels.

Feehan's total deductions of 204 pounds for gleanings and husks was the largest of the nine contestants, yet the entry with the smallest deduction of 37 pounds came in sixth in the contest.

Urges Farmers To Study Facts About County

State College Expert Gives Interesting Statistics On Community

FIGURES ON INCOME GIVEN

In order that they may be better able to plan for the future, Prof. W. V. Dennis, of State College, told members of the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association they would have to learn more about themselves, their markets and surrounding conditions, at the annual meeting in the First U. P. church, Thursday.

Prof. Dennis was the principal speaker on the afternoon program, and gave some exceptionally enlightening statistics on the county.

He stated that the farmers of Lawrence county, as well as those in the country as a whole, were so much better off than the farmers of other countries, who have no automobiles, telephones, bath rooms, electric lights or central heating plants—although the county was behind the state average in electric lights and heating plants.

Income Averages $788

Conditions have changed materially in this country in the past few years, he asserted, and the farmers have been affected by these changes.

He pointed out the fact that the youth of today is staying on the farm and are better off than the youths of the city, because they have something to occupy themselves with.

The average cash income from farm products in Lawrence county last year was $788, according to reliable figures. This is below a number of counties, and the average for the state as a whole, which is $1,055.

The income in Lawrence county is derived from the following sources, he pointed out; field crops, fruits 14 per cent; truck garden and greenhouse produce, 6½ per cent; dairy products, 59 per cent; chickens and eggs, 14½ per cent: other sources, 2 per cent.

The population of the county, he pointed out was 43 per cent foreign born, which would give the inhabitants a different dietary demand than in localities where most of the inhabitants were native born.

Little Beaver Leads

He also showed the districts which had the largest farm income and those which had the lowest.

The average farm income from Taylor and Union townships, was only $447 per year; Wayne township and Mahoning, the average was around $864; Pulaski, Scott, Slippery Rock, ran between $1032 and $1299; Plaingrove had an average income of $1,490, while Little Beaver showed the highest return, averaging $1,529.

He stated that the farmers of Lawrence county would go forward as they worked together and exchanged ideas.

J. M. Frey also of State College, urged the farmers of the county to make more use of the Extension Association, and to develop local leadership.

He stated that there has been a notable increase in the past few years in the amount of interest being shown in the extension work and 4-H Club work.

Reviews Work

County extension representative, Harold C. McCulloch, reviewed the program of the morning and pointed out the high spots in the various talks which had been given by those on the program, and reviewed the work of the association during the past year.

There were 75 demonstrations held, he stated; with 128 other farm meetings, while he made 570 farm visits, in addition to receiving many calls on the phone. Both he and Miss Vogle, the home economics instructor, are ready to serve the residents of the county on matters pertaining to the farm at all times, and urged the members of the association to have no hesitation in calling them about their difficulties.

The missionaries are the Rev. F. N. Smith, Mrs. Laura Brodbeck, Miss Carrie Shurtloff and Miss Frances Theloff, all Baptist workers assigned to Yaochow.

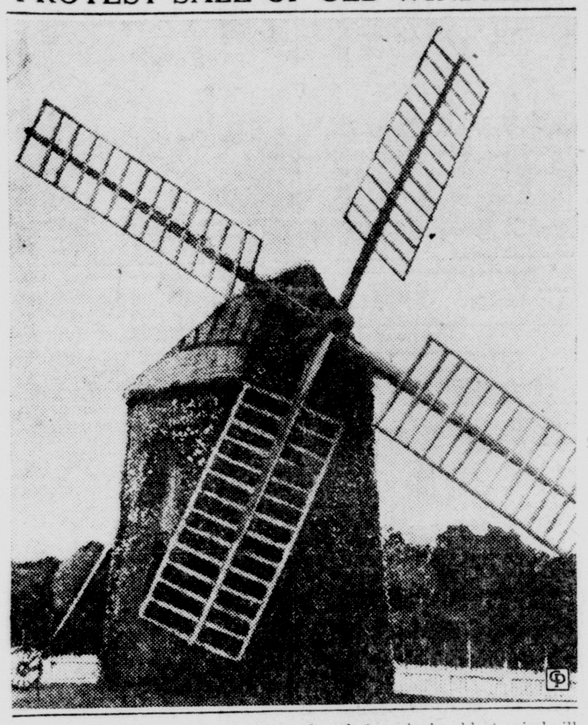
PROTEST SALE OF OLD WINDMILL



A wave of protest followed the sale of America's oldest windmill, above, to Henry Ford. Civic and patriotic organizations joined hands and hundreds of telegrams were dispatched to the automobile magnate protesting removal of the 302-year-old relic from West Yarmouth, Mass., to the Ford museum at Dearborn, Mich.

From 1929 to 1934 the population of Great Britain increased by 850,000; that of France by 650,000; Germany by 1,300,000, and Russia by 11,500,000.

According to most recent records, there are six times as many families with six or more children in North Carolina than there are in California.

Unified Bonus Plan Advanced

Will Lay New Plans For Veterans Bonus In Front Of Roosevelt

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A unified veterans plan for payment of the soldiers' bonus will be laid before President Roosevelt early in December, it is disclosed.

Veterans leaders who decided on the move hope to persuade Mr. Roosevelt to sign a bill, and thus avoid another fight to pass it over his veto.

Although there has been no indication of a chance in the attitude of the administration since Mr. Roosevelt delivered his veto message in person, the veterans leaders are not discouraged.

They believe that a change in conditions, the attitude of congress and the country and the approach of the 1936 presidential campaign are factors which may lead to a settlement of the long-standing question.

MAY GET LIFE TERM FOR ONION THEFT

(International News Service)

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 15.—Stealing some onions and a spray, valued at 85 cents, may send Harry Mongold, 40, to prison for life.

Found guilty of felony for the third time, the life sentence is automatic under the state's habitual criminal law.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. November 14, three arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness, 3.

City hall sign in East street has been painted green and the woodwork of the municipal building has been painted gray. An asphalt roof is also to be laid according to WPA workers.

Council chambers and the city clerk's office were thronged with attorneys and clients during yesterday's hearings of the Workmen's Compensation Board referee.

Several G-men visited Chief of Police John F. Haven and Captain of Detectives W. G. McMullen yesterday. The G-men make frequent trips to the city if for no more important reason than to study the history of persons arrested.

Several days ago Howard Phillips, garbage superintendent, lost a gold band ring in some ashes. Thursday he had ashes at the incinerating plant screened. His ring was found.

Permits for side-arms are not issued any more by Chief of Police John F. Haven, excepting to persons who carry valuables. Hunters who wish to carry side-arms into the deer country can obtain them from the county treasurer.

The bulletin board which contained caricatures of all of the candidates at the primaries and the election has been removed from the city police station. No doubt another bulletin board will make its appearance at the next election.

Charles McGrath, mayor-elect, paid a visit to city hall offices on Thursday. He met some of the folks with whom he will be associated for the next few years. No doubt he will soon be a regular visitor to learn the mechanicism of the city building.

There are hundreds of sidewalks in need of repair, which cannot be made by property-owners owing to financial reasons, according to Inspector Lou Mosely. If the sidewalks are dangerous to pedestrians notices are served on the owners, which, according to Mosely, absolves the city from liability for damages.

By observing the following, you can save about 15 per cent on your gas consumption when baking. Place your cake tins, one on the top rack, one on the lower rack, not directly under each other, and about three inches from the oven sides and oven back.

Former Carlisle Football Star Is Now In New Castle

Jesse Houser Former Indian Grid Star Recalls Thorpe

Says "Football Today Is Not Nearly As Rough As In Olden Days"

New Castle has an old-time football star in its midst. The man in question is Jesse Houser, full-blooded Shawnee Indian of Oklahoma, and a former member of the Carlisle Indians football team.

Houser in talking with a News sports writer, recalled the days of the famous Jim Thorpe at Carlisle, and of Coach "Pop" Warner. Houser played with the Carlisle Indians in 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, and 1911. He was used at a guard and for the last two years was a fullback. He weighed over 200 pounds and was one of the ranking stars.

Thorpe Greatest

"Football in those days, was much harder than it is today, it is more scientific now," according to Houser. Jim Thorpe, of course, was his nomination as the best football player the country has ever known.

At 40 years of age, Houser said that he would like to play another game of football. He contends that in the olden days one had to be tough to stand the gaff.

Asked what was the toughest team he ever played against, Houser replied, "Well, Penn State had a crackerjack team in those days, but some team from Wilkes-Barre was the berries when it came to being tough."

Next at Wisconsin?

Tom Lieb

Reports that this would be Dr. Clarence Spears' last year as coach at University of Wisconsin preceded the rumor that Tom Lieb, above, would succeed him. Lieb, former Notre Dame player and for a time line coach at Wisconsin, is head coach at Loyola of Los Angeles. He is pictured with Loyola's mascot.

The secretary and treasurer is George Ryne of Sharon. The league comprises the cream of duckpin bowlers in each of the towns mentioned.

Geneva Ready For Westminster

Season Finale For Both Teams At Beaver Falls, Saturday

THREE SENIORS ON GENEVA ELEVEN

(Special To The News)

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 15.—Only three seniors are among the eleven Geneva College gridders who are to start against Westminster College here tomorrow in the Covenanters' last clash of the season. Two others are sure to see action as the Genevans battle the Titans in the feature of the first annual Hilltop "Dad's Day".

Heading the list is Captain Dick "Ocean" Jones, of Pittsburgh, former all-scholastic star from South Hills. Jones has been one of the leading Covenanter athletes during his stay at Geneva, earning four varsity football letters, captaining the baseball nine, and being a member of the cage squad. At the present time, Jones trails Frank Patrick of Pitt in the scoring race. Patrick has 61 points and Jones 58.

Johnny Begolly, Joe Hlista, Nick Garda and Schuller are the other Genevans to make their last appearance in Covenanter garb. Begolly, a Vandergrift boy, broke into the starting lineup two years ago when Cliff Aultman broke his leg in a tilt with St. Vincent. Hlista, one of the school's outstanding students as well as an experienced lineman, hails from Ambridge, Pa. Garda, Beaver Falls quarterback, prepped at Allentown after graduating from the local Tiger school but reached Geneva just as Art Grahame was at his peak. After playing regular last year, Garda was benched in favor of the spectacular Roselli but has turned in commendable service as a reserve. Schuller is one of Coach Dike Beede's reserve linemen.

The probable lineup:

Westminster		Geneva
Austen	L E	Begolly
Watt	L T	M. Jones
Butler	L G	Raney
Jones	C	Komara
Krulatz	R G	Hlista
Harder	R T	Gustovich
Brooks	R E	Feick
Arrowsmith	Q	Roselli
Bailey	L H	Delon

Five Titans In Their Final Game

Will Play For Westminster In Last Game Against Geneva Saturday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 15.—Five seniors will play their final game, Saturday, when the Westminster eleven journeys to Beaver Falls to try for an upset on the strong Covenanters.

Coach Gilbane will probably start the game with Arrowsmith on the bench with an injured ankle received in the Morris-Harvey game last Saturday. Arrowsmith, star of the Titans' victory over the West Virginias, along with Austin, end; Watt and Turner, tackles; and Auld, center, will be wearing their blue crowned helmets for the last time. Susko, although still nursing bruised ribs, will probably play as will Harry Shoup, freshman half, who has been injured most of the season.

The chief task the Titan backfield faces will be to stop the passing of Roselli, 130 pound Geneva quarter, who behind a strong line and with good defensive blocking, is reputed to be the most dangerous spot of the Covenanter team with his well-timed passes. The second Titan task will be to uncork enough of an attack to score against the Geneva team, a task which proved too much for the Waynesburg team, which earlier in the season sank the Titan ship without difficulty.

Westminster will have the advantage of a longer rest than Geneva, who will be playing two games within the week, five days apart. Weights will be of little consequence since neither team displays weight and power-drive in the line as its chief attack. The battle will likely be waged in the air, provided Arrowsmith's injury enables him to play.

Greensburg And Scott High In Class AA Race

Committee Decides New Castle No Better Than Fifth Place

TO MEET AGAIN NET TUESDAY

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Multiple claims of western Pennsylvania scholastic football teams to division champions today kept officials of the W. P. I. A. L. busy computing the schools' respective points after failing to arrive at definite winners ing a meeting here last evening.

The league's football committee, after much consideration, decided to reconvene next Tuesday at which time it hopes to finally name leaders in the class AA, class A and class B races.

New Castle high school, last year's double A titlists, on the basis of present figures, was running in fifth place with 95 points, quite a piece arrears of Greensburg and Scott high of North Braddock, two claimants to the flag in that loop, who are separated by a few scant points.

Tarentum and McKees Rocks were running neck-and-neck for first honors in class A with Elizabeth high not far behind while Glassport was leading the class B standing.

Class AA points—Greensburg 122, Scott 114, Beaver Falls 102, Jeannette 100, New Castle 95, Vandergrift 94.

Walsh Favors Notre Dame To Trample Army

LIKES MINNESOTA OVER MICHIGAN

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—In answer to popular demand, the fumblefinger A. C., which is Broadway's description of a phoney (he'd be a great guy, if he ever had it), decided to dispense with its weekly meeting today with the customary result. That is, he didn't know who was going to win all those football games tomorrow and, following the meeting that wasn't held, we still don't know.

All we can do is to use the prerogation of the blind man who fell down the coal hole at midnight with smoked glasses on. I mean that anybody can use their judgment, but we're different. Our system is infallible. We simply decide what is the logical thing to do and then do something else. In this way, we are able to keep in perfect liason with one another, even when we don't meet. Nobody is ever right, so the simplest course is to vote wrong and reach an immediate agreement.

Favors Notre Dame

In this way, we learn with considerable agitation that Syracuse and New York University are to join the defeated teams for the first time tomorrow. The fumblers have willed it so. The dope, of course, indicates an entirely different result. But that's one thing about the fumblers. They're always in there leading with their foot. The other unbeaten teams, it appears are going through. I trust they understand this thoroughly.

Indidentally, the Army will lose to Notre Dame by one touchdown. If it happens to be two—imagine the fumbler's chagrin.

Picks Temple

Moreover, if you have chagrin o chag, so to speak, now is the time to grin:

East-Temple over Marquette (against the dope); Navy over Columbia; Colgate over Syracuse, a flier; Dartmouth over Cornell, but with surprising trepidation; Pitt over Nebraska; Rutgers over N. Y. U., not a flier, a flutter; Penn State over Pennsylvania Princeton over Lehigh; Manhattan over Georgetown, with reservations; Holy Cross over Bates, but closer than it looks; Maryland over Washington and Lee; Harvard over New Hampshire; Boston University over Brown, but close; Boston College over Springfield. Western Maryland over Catholic University.

Mid-west—Chicago over Indiana; Colorado over Kansas, a flier; Iowa State over Drake; Minnesota over Michigan; Northwestern over Wisconsin; Ohio State over Illinois, with tremolo effects; Iowa over Purdue, ditto.

Alabama Favored

South—Alabama over Georgia Tech; Tulane over Kentucky; Auburn over Oglethorpe; Centenary over Baylor; Mississippi over Centre; North Carolina over; Duke Florida over Sewanee; Lousiana State over Georgia; Rice over Texas A. and M., North Carolina State over Richmond; Vandergrift over Tennessee; Texas Christian over Texas.

Far West—California over College of the Pacific; Michigan State over Loyola; Oregon State over Idaho; a flier on U. S. C. over Washington state.

Kelly Petillo, auto racer, believes the time ripe for him to retire and after five years of grinding over tracks, the winner of the 1935 Indianapolis Speedway event and ranking national auto race driver, will let the other drivers take the chances in the dangerous game, he announced at Los Angeles today.

Mose Butch, who fought Jackie Rogers here several years ago, has become one of the mates that will help condition Norman Quarles for the latter's battle against Freddie Miller, featherweight champion of the world, which will take place at Pittsburgh Monday night.

Although neither of them have fought in this section there is considerable interest in the bout tonight for the bantamweight championship at New York between Lou Salica of New York City and Sixto Escobar of Puerto Rico. More than 12,000 are expected to see them fight. Escobar is champ and is favored to win the encounter. The winner will meet Balcazar Sanchilli of Spain, who took a decision over Panama Al Brown, former champion.

Bessemer High Playing Today

Eight Of Bessemer High Team Will Play Final Game Today

Eight of the Bessemer high grid stars who will trot out on the Bessemer field this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to oppose Monaca high, will be playing their final game for the Red and Black of Bessemer high, according to an announcement by Head Coach J. K. Fredericks today.

The eight men are as follows: Donatti, Poushey, Marshall, Young, Scott, Williams, Murphy and Pepe. All of the boys will be missed considerable next year by Coach Fredericks when he trots out his 1935 county league champions, next fall.

Bessemer high has won the county championship two years in a row. Assisting Fredericks with the coaching is Cappezzuto, former Bessemer and Slippery Rock star, and Thomas.

With a well balanced team this year, the Bessemers tied Union at 0-0, and then defeated Shenango high to take the toga.

ITALIAN JUNIORS MEET

The Italian Juniors met last night and organized a basketball team for the coming season. Ray Micaletti was named as captain of the team. The business manager will be "Bull" Cialella. Geno "Spotty" Reda was named as manager of the team. The next meeting will be held Sunday.

New Castle Hi Preparing For Game Saturday

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh Puts "Red Hurricanes" Through Paces

GAME TO START AT 2:00 O'CLOCK

New Castle high school "Red Hurricane" football team will be away from home Saturday afternoon, playing New Kensington at the New Kensington high field. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

New Kensington may offer stiff opposition to the "Hurricanes" according to dope in the valley. New Ken high has had a fair season.

Reserved Section

Tickets for the game are on sale at the Sporting Goods Store and the Senior high school.

The New Castle lineup will probably be the same that started the Martins Ferry game, with Mumford at quarter, Cox and Perrett at the halves and DeCaprio at fullback. Engs and Donegan will, of course, see plenty of action in this game.

A special section of the New Ken field has been reserved for the New Castle fans. Cards granting permission to enter the New Castle section are being given out with each ticket sold here.

Elks Home Open

While in New Kensington the New Castle fans, students and team will more than likely headquarter at the Elks Home, which has been thrown open to the New Castle fans by the Elks officials. This is a very fine courtesy and one that is greatly appreciated. Many New Castle fans took advantage of this fine Elks Home two years ago when New Castle played at New Kensington. The football field is on the same street as the Elks Home.

Shenango High Closes Season

East New Castle Grid Team Makes Good Record; Wins Four Out Of Six Games

GEORGE PHELPS IS HEAD COACH

ALTHOUGH the grid season for Shenango high came to a close last week with an impressive 15 to 7 triumph over Union, the community of East New Castle is still enthused over the enviable record compiled by the Coach George Phelps gridiron machine.

Shenango played six tough contests and came through victorious four times. Evans City and Bessemer were the only two opponents able to solve the intricate attack of the Blue and Gold pig skin catchers. The Shenango team opened the season by surprising the local grid world with a 6-0 defeat of Zelienople. Mercer was the second eleven to fall before Shenango, 12-0. Mars was completely outclassed, 41-0.

Evans City handed the East New Castle representatives their first defeat, 12-0, in one of the most exciting contests of the season. Bessemer took the measure of the Shenango eleven, 13-6. Deserting East New Castle last Friday, the Shenango machine traveled to Union high and romped off the field with a startling 15-7 victory to end its 1935 season in a blaze of glory. Bessemer's victory cost Shenango the Class B laurels.

Shenango tallied 80 points against 32 for their opponent. Irwin, left half back, led his team in scoring, crossing the goal line five time. Tanner was second with four touchdowns. This year's eleven proved one of the strongest in the history of Shenango high. George Phelps, who just completed his first year's coaching assignment, did quite well. He was assisted by Frank Nocera, former Slippery Rock star.

The first team included Kroesen, Long, Weresuk, McIltrot, Williams, Kirkwood, Gibson, Bulisco, Fee, Irwin, Tanner, Ketzel.

Shenango	6	Zelienople	0
Shenango	12	Mercer	0
Shenango	41	Mars	0
Shenango	0	Evans City	12
Shenango	15	Union	7
Shenango	6	Bessemer	13
Totals	80	Totals	32

Shenango touchdowns: Irwin, 5; Tanner, 4; Bulisco, 2; Ketzel, 1.

Points after touchdowns: Tanner, 3; Irwin, 2; Ketzel, 1.

Shenango scored two points on safety (against Union.)

TWO AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS REPORTED

Two automobile accidents with slight damages occurred November 14, according to reports to police. James Moses, 15 West Long avenue, reported his auto had hit a parked auto and automobile driven by Anthony Kutch, Chicago, and a truck were in a collision at Croton avenue and East Washington streets.

COLLEGE GRID NOTES IN BRIEF

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Grid "experts" today refused to be quoted on the outcome of tomorrow's cornhusking jamboree between Nebraska's Big Six champions and the Pitt Panthers here. While Nebraska expects to snar the jungle cat by a speedy running attack led by Lloyd Cardwell, sensational halfback, Coach Jock Sutherland will uncork an aerial attack in his attempt to keep his charges in the winning column.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Coach Christy Flanagan's leads from Duquesne University tappered off today in preparation for tomorrow's tilt with the Mountaineers at Morgantown, W. Va. The Dukes invade the West Virginia hills with several regulars on the crippled list including Him Campbell, fullback, and Earnest Hefferle, right end.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 15.—A squad of thirty-three Notre Dame football players was enroute to New York today for the traditional battle with the Army there tomorrow. Andy Pilney, who almost single handed pulled the Ohio State game out of the fire for Notre Dame, is definitely out of the game, as is Dick Pfefferle, regular tackle. Both were injured playing against the Buckeyes.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—With their final pre-game warm-up behind them, 40 Army gridders will remain "under wraps" at Knollwood Country Club here today. Every man is in good condition for the Notre Dame clash, and according to Coach Gar Davison, the Cadets are not conceding "their old foe a single thing." Davison also announced his probable starting line-up as follows: Ends, Shuler and Stromberg; tackles, Wolf and Ericksen; guards, Smith and Necreason; centre, Clifford; halves, Meyer and Grove; quarter, Grohs; and True fullback.

Slippery Rock And Thiel Will Meet Saturday

Expect Hot Battle At Greenville—Both Teams Have Good Season

(Special To The News)

GREENVILLE, Nov. 15.—Coach Stoeber is drilling the Thiel Tomcats this week in both offensive and defensive tactics, preparatory to the last home game with Slippery Rock at Packard Park Saturday. It will be necessary for the Thiel team to improve their line tactics this week if they are to outcharge the strong Rocket eleven. In the Allegheny game last Saturday this proved to be Thiel's weak point.

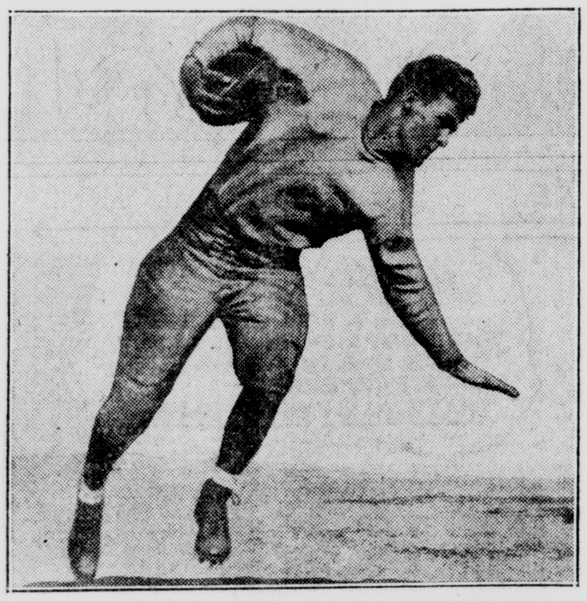
A crowd of several thousand is expected tomorrow to witness the Tomcat's first home appearance of the season. The spectators will be treated to a keenly contested game, as both Thiel and Slippery Rock have enjoyed excellent records so far this season; and the outcome of the game will go a long way towards determining the mythical champion of the "simon pure" schools of Western Pennsylvania.

The Lutherans have won three games so far this season, defeating Clarion 47-2, Bethany 19-7, and Allegheny 16-0.

The only reverse was suffered at the hands of Waynesburg 20-0. The Teachers have a correspondingly fine record, including a 70-0 win over Edinboro last week.

To remove the shine that comes in pressing, place a dry cloth over the shiny place. Over this place a second cloth which has been wrung out in water. Pass over the spot lightly with an iron. If the material has a nap, brush with a stiff brush and repeat the process of steaming described.

"Pro" Found On College Team



Ted Londos, of Oak Park, Ill., former professional football player, is alleged to have admitted playing under assumed name this season on City College of New York team before he was discovered by authorities and expelled. His is second notable case of kind to be revealed this year. (Central Press)

Grid Attendance Surpasses 1934

Big Ten Reports Bigger Crowds At Games This Year

By JOHN C. HOFFMAN
International News Service Sports Editor

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Attendance at Big Ten football games this fall will be 15 per cent greater than in 1934, according to figures compiled today by Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of the conference.

Last year's figure was 32 per cent better than in 1932, Major Griffith said, when enthusiasm for the type of game played by the Big Ten reached its lowest point in many years. The excitement, he said, reached its pinnacle in 1927 when everybody had money and football insanity was not considered a luxury.

Many Stay Away

A lot of people are still staying away from football games, of course, but then things are picking up and it may not be long before the lunacy will call for another display of stadia building even more spirited than the last one.

As for the individual teams, only Wisconsin, torn by dissension and a great hate for Clarence ("Don't Call Me Fat") Spears, is running behind last year's attendance. At Ohio State, Northwestern, Minnesota, Michigan and Iowa, the gate receipts are better and the furore is greater. The others are running about on a par with last year's figures.

Wabash Bears To Play Sixth Ward Firemen At 3 O'clock

The Wabash Bears football team will play the Sixth Ward Firemen at the E. & A. Field in the Seventh Ward Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the semi-final of the New Castle Independent football elimination tourney.

Included in the lineup of the Bears will be Albert "Blackie" Adamo, and Rocco Tomalello, of New Castle High School fame. The Firemen according to Charles Fox, the manager will have a strong lineup on the field, including several former members of the Union High school team.

Gilbane Loses His Amateur Standing

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 15—Coach Tom Gilbane, Westminster college grid coach, former outstanding shot-putter in the east and at one time holder of the world's indoor record, loses his amateur standing with his past year of coaching at the Titan institution.

Last year, Gilbane aided his brother, William Gilbane, in coaching the Titan gridders, but worked without pay in order to hold his amateur standing, with the hopes of participating in the Olympics of 1936. Only an injured knee prevented Gilbane from participating in the 1932 Olympics.

Sacred Hearts Will Meet On Saturday Night

Members of the Sacred Hearts basketball team of the New Castle church league are asked to report at the "Y" at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night for a workout. Coach Andy "Coots" Venditto wants every man on the squad to report.

The Sacred Hearts would like to arrange a few practice games prior to opening the League season on Thanksgiving. For games with the Hearts call 4151M and ask for Rocco P. Viggiano. The Polish Falcons are asked to call.

The following should report Saturday night—Nick Gennock, Tony Gennock, Frank Merando, Vinnie Gallagher, Joe Nigro, Joe Kelly, Frank Viggiano, Sammy Bullano, Peter Zingaro and Sam Habib.

Correct This Sentence: "He will be kind to the poor," said the man, "for he used to be one of them."

Profit-Taking Fails To Halt Market Advance

Despite Profit-Taking Market Is Considerably Stronger Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The stock market went into new high ground today in another burst of strength but the advance was slowed down later by heavy profit-taking.

A wave of buying occurred in the early dealings and the high speed ticked quickly fell behind. Gains ran to four points with the farm implements and miscellaneous industrials like American Can prominent.

Steels were held in check by profit-taking. Bethlehem was inclined to ease while United States Steel showed support around the previous close. Motor shares also lagged, as did the utilities.

The week-end trade review telling of an upturn in retail sales as a result of colder weather brought a strong market for the merchandising shares.

Railroad shares made up a good part of the trading activity. New York Central was in big demand. Great Northern went to a new high. Union Pacific rose over a point after yesterday's irregularity.

A buoyant tone developed in the farm implements. Case Threshing ran up four points to a new high. International Harvester also bettered its previous high with a two-point rise.

Heavy dealings were seen in the coppers, where Anaconda opened an 8,500 shares in response to its earnings again. The liquors, depressed for several days, stiffened. Schenley rose around a point and Commercial Solvents was active. Oils worked higher in active trading.

Commodities were firm with grains fractionally higher. Bonds showed some irregularity though rails were in demand.

ELLWOOD TO CLOSE SEASON SATURDAY

Rested-up Team To Play Tenth And Final Game At Rochester Tomorrow

GAME LAST FOR SEVEN REGULARS

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 15.—Football as far as Ellwood City is concerned ends tomorrow afternoon when Coach "Denny" Schill's colorful blue and white machine will invade Rochester for their tenth and final game of the season.

The Ellwood Wolverines will enter the game tomorrow with an impressive record and the outright favorites over Coach Ernie Myers Rochester team which has four scoreless deadlocks and three defeats. They have yet to score a point. Against this the Tubers have seven victories, one defeat, and one tie. Throughout the district Coach Schill's cohorts have attained the name of the "magical eleven," and with reason to. Featuring a wide open attack mixed with power where ever needed the Ellwoodians have developed into a high scoring machine. They are third in team scoring in Beaver Valley just some eight points behind Beaver Falls who is second. Ambridge is first with an impressive total of 185.

Fear Upset

This is a beautiful setting for an upset, which Coach Schill has deeply impressed upon his proteges. He pointed out that Rochester is a traditional rival of the Tubers who have spoiled more than one impressive record.

Coach Schill has warned his boys to disregard Rochester's four scoreless ties with Aliquippa, Midland, Trinity, and Monaca, and their three defeats at the hands of New Brighton 14-0, Beaver Falls 19-0, and Ambridge 35-0.

Fearing a letdown Coaches Schill and Croft have been easy on the squad this week. Only one scrimmage was held and that on last Tuesday when two hours were spent in drilling on fundamentals.

Yesterday the final tackling drill was held. Seven regulars who will play their last game for Ellwood City High hit the tackling dummy for the last time. After a short drill the whole squad gathered around as the seniors lined up to knock the stuffing out of the dummy. When Coach Schill called out their name a terrific thud was heard. In this line were Captain Mike Kraynak, center, Francis Miller guard, "Bake" Tammaro tackle, "Si" Hughes end, Dave Luxenberg quarterback, Chet Bognosky halfback, and Tony Scopelite fullback. With them also will go Nick Frisk who was the regular right guard until he received a broken leg in the second game of the season. Others to depart are Pratt center, Hines halfback, Conti and Zeigler tackles, Izzo end, of the second team.

All Valley W. P. I. A. L. Team

Out of this group Kraynak and Bognosky are serious contenders for all Beaver Valley and W. P. I. A. L. honors. Kraynak has been an outstanding lineman all season besides being an inspirational leader and a steadying influence on his teammates. To date he has not made a single bad pass and has not met a peer on defense. The other contender for honors is Bill Young, pile driving halfback, who is one of the sections leading scorers. Bognosky would be a district credit to any team. His blocking and punting ability is an answer to a Coach's dream. He is of the type of which little is heard but is responsible for the runs made by his teammates in the backfield. Bognosky has yet to meet a peer in punting. He is one of the foremost scholastic punters in the country. Three weeks ago it is believed that he set a scholastic record with a boot of 95 yards from behind his own goal line. Tammaro is expected to receive consideration on the all-valley team as a tackle. He has been a fast, hard, and rugged lineman all season and was one big reason why Aliquippa could get no where.

The strongest line-ups of both teams will be used tomorrow.

Ellwood		Rochester
Hughes	L E	Cole
H. Young	L T	Cordes
Pishioneri	L G	Laterow
Kraynak (C)	C	Fisher
Miller	R G	Bell
Tammaro	R T	Andriotti
Flanagan	R E	McCracken
Luxenberg	Q	Smith
W. Young	L H	Peasinelli
Bognosky	R H	Polce

Impressive Program Is Carried Out By Local Elks On Thursday Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 15.—One hundred members crowded the Elks clubhouse on Crescent avenue on Thursday evening to witness the initiation of the largest class of candidates inducted into Elkdom here for ten years. Following the ceremony a talk on Elkdom was given by R. A. Nagel, member of the state legislature.

A social time was then held during which a Thanksgiving turkey was won by Lee Kimes. The entertainment committee announced a cabaret and dance party for tomorrow night. The next meeting will be held on November 27.

The local degree team last night was composed of Exalted Ruler Bruce Myers, Leading Knight Frank Fitzgerald, Loyal Knight Ray Kellner, Lecturing Knight James Shirk, Tiler George Hemmerly, Inner Guard James Reasman, Organist Clytus Steinberger.

Mrs. C. V. Price conducted an interesting devotional period. Plans were made for the annual fathers and sons banquet which will be held on Friday evening, December 6, at the church. The group is very much pleased as they have secured Stanley P. Ashe superintendent of Western State Penitentiary at Allegheny, as the speaker.

An enjoyable social period was concluded by the serving of an appetizing luncheon by the hostess and Mesdames Joe Houk, Ephriam Wilson, Pollock Johnson, John Rodgers and Earl McElwain, co-hostesses.

At this time Mrs. James Perdue and Mrs. Frank Myers were delighted to secure lovely birthday gifts from their "secret sisters."

REV. J. C. FULTON

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 15—Members of the Wurtemburg United Presbyterian church are looking forward to a week of special meeting beginning on Sunday morning Nov. 17 and continuing every evening throughout the week, closing on November 24.

The meetings promises to be of exceptional interest, Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Fulton, being the evangelists. Rev. Fulton has been in the ministry a number of years and he was a classmate of Rev. R. H. Gordon, former Wurtemburg pastor, and conducted services here several years ago with a great deal of success.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fulton are singers of great ability and have been very successful in this type of work. Mrs. Fulton was in evangelistic work before her marriage and since then has greatly aided Mr. Fulton in this work.

For many years he was pastor of the Goodyear Heights church of Akron, O., and is at present pastor of the Plaingrove and Slippery Rock U. P. churches. Rev. J. E. Caughey is pastor of the Wurtemburg church.

The entire community will be welcomed to all the services.

Gridders To See Pitt-Tech Game And Get Banquet

Board Rewards Local High Team For Splendid Showing Made This Season

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 15.—As a reward for their fine showing and spirit this season the Ellwood City Board of Education decided to stand expenses to permit 35 members of the football squad to see the Pitt-Tech football game on Thanksgiving Day at Pittsburgh. On top of this the board is sponsoring the football banquet for the entire squad on Dec. 3 at the Shelby Auditorium. The public is invited to this.

The board readily accepted the recommendation of Coach "Denny" Schill and Supt. Vaughn R. DeLong in regards to the trip to Pittsburgh. It was their opinion that they had earned it and not too much could be done for them. Supt. DeLong announced that the grid balance to date is $1388.92. With a hospital bill, a few minor injuries, and a banquet to deduct, the net profit for the season will probably be $1100 in the athletic fund. There will be additional funds to come in for one more game occuring tomorrow at Rochester.

It was announced that upon request the annual football banquet has been thrown open to the public by the board, which is giving a turkey dinner. The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs are having a joint meeting on this day and agreed to participate in the banquet. The public can purchase tickets for the dinner and program for seventy-five cents. Some prominent sports figures are being secured as speakers. Moving pictures of either the Pitt-Notre Dame or Ohio State-Notre Dame game will be shown. Andy Biordi is on the committee making arrangements for the affair.
